SENTENCED TO 20 YEARS ON EACH OF FOUR CHARGES

Gets Maximum for Attempt to Murder—Defendant in Witness Chair Tells of Trying to Kill President-Elect.

STILL SORRY HE DIDN'T SUCCEED

"Judge, Don't Be Stingy, Give Me 100 Years," He Says — Counsel Abandons Plan to Try to Prove Assassin Is Insane.

By the Associated Press.
MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20. — Giuseppe Zangara was sentenced today to 80 years in prison for his attack Feb. 15 on President-elect Roosevelt, Miss Margaret Kreis of Newark, N. J., Russell Caldwell of Coconut Grove, Fla., and William Sinnott, New York policeman.

He was sentenced to 20 years on each of the four charges, which were attempts to murder, getting the maximum sentence in each case. The sentences are consecutive.

Zangara may yet be tried for murder. His pleas today did not cover the case of Mayor Cermak of Chicago and Mrs. Joe H. Gill of Miami, who are in a hospital here. After the sentence was pronounced Zangara said:

"Judge, how much you give me?" He holds up fingers.

Zangara held up his fingers—eight of them.

"Yes," said the Judge. "Oh, Judge, don't be stingy. Four times 20 is 80. Give me a hundred years."

He laughed as he was hastily led to court by deputies back to the Dade County jail. Zangara was sentenced after he pleaded guilty to the four charges and after he had repeated to Judge E. C. Collins he was sorry his attempt on the life of President-elect Roosevelt was unsuccessful.

"The man is unquestionably sane," Judge Collins said as he left the bench when court recessed, stating Zangara was sane.

Dismissing any attempt to plead that he was insane as he walked to the President-elect's car last Wednesday night and wounded five persons when his aim at Roosevelt was diverted by spectators, Zangara proudly insisted he was sane and told Judge Collins he would do what he wished in the past.

No Wish to Shoot Others.

Taking the stand to relate how he conceived the idea to kill the President-elect, Zangara told the court: "I suffer all the time from my stomach. I no like the way specialists take all my money. When I read in paper the President come here I decide to kill him."

The assassin, however, said he did not wish to shoot Mayor Cermak and the others.

He said he decided to kill Mr. Roosevelt "and make him suffer," the court had overruled a motion by defense counsel to quash the charge against Zangara growing out of the shooting of Mrs. Russell Caldwell. He also overruled a motion for postponement of the trial.

Judge E. C. Collins declined a request by Twyman that one plea of guilty be entered to all four counts and required an individual plea on each count.

Zangara showed only one spark of interest during reading of the charges. That was when he heard his name referred to as "Giuseppe Zangara, alias Joe Zangara."

"That means the same thing," he murmured. "Joe and Giuseppe mean the same thing."

He waved his hands earnestly as he spoke. "You call me Joe and Giuseppe,"

THREE COUNTY RESIDENCES ARE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Dwellings on Either Side of 1534 Engelholm Ave., Where Blast Started, Consumed.

Three residences on Engelholm avenue, west of the Washburn tracks and north of St. Charles road in St. Louis County, were destroyed by fire shortly before noon today. The fire originated on the second floor of the home of J. B. Ambuchon at No. 1534.

The fire had gained such headway when discovered that members of the Community Fire Department of Wellston were unable to prevent its spread to homes adjoining on either side.

The one-story house of John Freeman at No. 1534 was burned to the ground after neighbors had assisted in carrying out most of the furniture.

At the same time the story-and-a-half home of Logan Haley at No. 1532 took fire. It was destroyed after the furniture had been carried out. Firemen were hampered by the fact that there were no fire hydrants within reach of their lines.

$34,785 AWARD TO A. E. BLUMER

AGAINST MOTHER'S ESTATE

He Had Sued to Break Will Leaving Him $5 and Bulk of Property to Orphan's Home.

Arthur E. Blumer, 747 Melrose avenue, obtained a judgment for $34,785 by Circuit Judge McElhinney at Clayton today against the estate of his mother, Mrs. Louis Blumer. He had sued to break the will of his mother which left only $5 to himself and the bulk of the property to the German Protestant Orphan's Home.

Arthur Blumer charged that his father, Elias Blumer, who died in 1913, left his entire estate to his wife with the provision that it go to their son on her death. Judge McElhinney ruled that the wife had only held the estate in trust and was bound to turn it over to her son and accept only the income during her lifetime.

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 20.—Gen. John J. Pershing was ordered today to his hotel here and directions were issued that he was to see no one. The nature of his illness was not divulged.

Pershing arrived here yesterday from Fort Huachuca, where he had been resting for a few days after his recent illness with bronchitis that confined him to his room.

GLASS REFUSES POST IN CABINET, IT IS SAID

Treasury Portfolio Is Now Likely to Go to W. H. Goodin, New York.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—After weeks of hesitation, Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, was said today to have finally declined an invitation to become Secretary of Treasury in President-elect Roosevelt's Cabinet.

The Virginia's decision, Roosevelt's friends think, places William H. Woodin of New York in line for the Treasury post.

It was also believed possible it might result in further changes in the tentative lineup of the incoming Cabinet, making Senator Swanson, colleague of Glass, a possibility for Secretary of the Navy.

The reported decision by Glass also cuts down to two, the number of Senators regarded as Cabinet prospects. They are Cordell Hull of Tennessee, mentioned as Secretary of State, and Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, as Attorney-General.

Senator Cutting, Republican Independent of New Mexico, who supported Roosevelt in the campaign, declined suggestions that he become Secretary of the Interior.

BODY FOUND THOUGHT TO BE THAT OF MISSING OHIO BOY

Buried in Cleveland Suburb, Where Anonymous Phone Call Said It Could Be Found.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 20.—The body of a boy that Police Chief George J. Matowits said was that of 8-year-old Edert Holleran, missing since he failed to return home last Oct. 22, was found in suburban Newburg Heights today. There was no indication of how the boy met death.

The body was discovered by two schoolboys who said they were hunting for Holleran with a hound. The body had been buried under a pile of leaves beside a shelter house in Washington Park. One arm was uncovered.

Five days after the boy disappeared an anonymous telephone call was received saying his body would be found in Washington Park. Where today's discovery was made.

Police and civilians searched the ravine and heavily-wooded parts of the park, but found no trace of the boy.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—A sharp cold spell with intermittent snow has gripped the whole of England. Heavy rains in the north are blocked by snowdrifts today and along the coast lifeboats aided small vessels through a heavy fog.

Approval of Decision by Privy Council and Emperor Is Certain—Tokio Delegation Gets Ready to Leave Geneva.

JEHOL CAMPAIGN ABOUT TO BEGIN

Troops Likely to Start Tomorrow the Drive to Annex Chinese-Administered Province to Territory of Manchukuo.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 20.—Japan's delegation to the League of Nations received instructions today to reject the League's report on the Manchurian dispute and to withdraw from Geneva if the League Assembly adopts the report tomorrow.

This does not mean withdrawal from the League, Japanese officials said. That, they explained, is a constitutional question which will have to be considered after the delegation leaves the Assembly and departs from Geneva.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, Feb. 20.—The Cabinet has definitely approved withdrawal of Japan from the League of Nations, unless the League Assembly kills the report demanding that Japan end its military and political control in Manchuria.

Approval of the Cabinet's decision by the Privy Council and the Emperor is regarded as certain. Also certain is the League Assembly's endorsement of the Manchuria report.

Meanwhile, a Foreign Office spokesman said it would not be surprising if the military campaign to annex the Chinese-administered province of Jehol to the Japanese-occupied Manchukuo.

PROHIBITION REPEAL PASSED BY HOUSE; NOW UP TO STATES

PUBLIC EMPLOYEES IN FRANCE STRIKE AGAINST PAY CUTS

Street Cars, Busses and Subway Trains, Schools and Mail Deliveries Halted Briefly.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Feb. 20.—State and Government employees throughout France defied the Government today and held brief "warning" strikes in public services in protest against proposed wage cuts.

Street cars, busses and subway trains halted for 10 minutes, causing a traffic jam. Telephone service was interrupted for an hour and postmen delayed distribution of the mails for an hour. Thousands of employees in public offices folded their arms or left their places of employment.

Neither the Government nor Parliament proposed to deliberate under threats. Premier Daladier told the Senate yesterday. He appealed for coolness and warned Government workers that it was inadmissible for them to cause public inconvenience.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 20.—Miss Alice B. Todd, under sentence to serve a year and a day imprisonment on her conviction of violating the national banking laws in connection with the collapse of the Kansas City Joint Stock Land Bank, today was placed under probation for two years by Federal Judge McElhinney.

Miss Todd had announced her intention of discontinuing her fight to escape the sentence which had hung over her for five years, and planned to surrender to the Government within a few days to begin her term.

But Judge McElhinney, in a surprise move, ordered her probation. He said she had been a good mother and a good wife, and that she had been a good citizen.

On Jan. 25, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed Miss Todd's sentence and the six-year sentence and $25,000 fine against Cravens. Cravens is carrying his fight to the United States Supreme Court.

Edwards was quoted by police as saying "she fell out."

JUDGE DECLINES TO GIVE RULING ON GRAND BANK LOOT REWARD CLAIMS

Davis Throws Out Case, Refusing To Supervise Distribution Among Wrongdoers of Spoils From Unlawful Conduct.

SAYS TRANSACTION CAN'T BE JUSTIFIED

He Declares Such Bargaining With Thieves Would 'Render Society Absolutely Helpless Before the Criminal Class.'

Federal Judge Charles B. Davis today threw out of court the suit of the Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Maryland against the Grand National Bank for $77,944, and the bank's counter claim against the bonding company, both claims resulting from the recovery of $823,000 stolen bonds through payment of a $145,000 reward to the thieves.

Judge Davis declared in his written opinion that the bonding company and the bank "consummated a transaction that cannot be justified under the law."

That approval of such dealings would "render society absolutely helpless before the criminal class," and that the courts should decline to supervise distribution among wrongdoers of spoils derived from unlawful conduct.

Therefore, Judge Davis said he would refuse to stultify himself by adjudicating the case. He accordingly rendered judgment against the bonding company on its alleged cause of action, and against the bank on its counterclaim, thus leaving the case undetermined.

The bank has the privilege of appeal to a higher court.

No Relief to Either Party.

"Under the circumstances," the court said, "the law affords no relief to either party, but leaves them in the position where they have placed themselves. He that makes his bed, lies there."

The bonding company's suit, which was heard by Judge Davis without a jury, was for a $77,944 refund from the $125,000 which it paid to the bank on the original loss of bonds and cash in the $866,000 safe deposit robbery of May 25, 1930.

The bank was willing to refund $145,000. Its counterclaim against the bonding company was based largely on the allegation that the bonding company was liable for a part of the $145,000 reward.

The bonding company, although its local head carried on the reward negotiations, denied any such liability. The reward was paid to Joseph L. Lemon, lawyer, since deceased, who represented the thieves. He took $15,000 of the reward as his fee.

In his decision, Judge Davis reviewed the testimony as to negotiations between Emmett M. Myers, resident vice-president of the bonding company, and the "underworld," and the conferences between Myers and Ed Maya, president of the bank, as to plans for paying the reward.

Criticism Agreement.

"Was the undertaking to recover these bonds," the court asks, "under the circumstances, such a transaction as is condemned by public policy? Of course, it is. It is the position of both parties that there was no intention whatever that their efforts should stifle a criminal prosecution. But there cannot be the least doubt that the parties impliedly, if not expressly, agreed to consummate the matter in hand in such manner as to prevent the officers of the law from getting any information about who the offenders were, who represented them, where the securities were concealed and who had them in possession."

"It cannot be supposed that the robbers would have dealt with the plaintiff and defendant (bonding company and bank) on any other terms. That wrongful purpose was clearly a part of the whole undertaking."

"Regardless of whether the parties were innocent or guilty, the law is clear that the transaction was a crime."

MOVE FOR MISSOURI REPEAL CONVENTION; TEXT OF PROPOSED AMENDMENT

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 20.—The Weeks bill to provide machinery in Missouri for ratification of repeal of the eighteenth amendment was reported by the House Committee on Constitutional Amendments this afternoon, with the recommendation that it be passed.

The action was taken hurriedly after the receipt of information that the resolution for repeal had been passed by Congress.

The Weeks bill provides for a State-wide vote on repeal and for a convention, the delegates to which would be bound to vote in accordance with the result of the State vote.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The resolution and proposed twenty-first amendment to the Constitution as adopted by the Senate last Thursday, and by the House today, reads:

Joint resolution: Whereas an amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled (two-thirds of each house concurring therein):

That the following article is hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which shall be valid to all interests and purposes as part of the Constitution of the United States:

Section 1. The eighteenth article of amendment to the Constitution of the United States is hereby repealed.

Section 2. The transportation or importation into any state, territory or possession of the United States for delivery or use therein of intoxicating liquors, in violation of the laws thereof, is hereby prohibited.

Section 3. This article shall have the same force and effect as an amendment to the Constitution by convention in the several states, as provided in the Constitution, within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the states by the Congress.

Gov. Ely Calls on Legislature to Provide for State Convention to Pass on Ratification.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, Feb. 20.—Gov. Joseph B. Ely today asked the Legislature to pass legislation providing for a state convention to consider repeal of the eighteenth amendment. As soon as the result in Washington reached him, Gov. Ely called a joint session of the Legislature and read a message to it. In the message he said: "The passage of this resolution to the people through state conventions affords an immediate opportunity to follow the mandate of our recorded history. Here was first tried the ideal of prohibition. Here were created the first laws of regulation. Here should be created the first convention to deal with the repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

"I recommend the immediate enactment of legislation providing for the assembling of a convention, to be held at Boston as soon as may be, to act on the question as to whether or not this proposed amendment of the Constitution of the United States shall be adopted."

SENATE'S MODIFIED RESOLUTION ADOPTED

Vote, 289 to 121, Is 15 More Than Two-Thirds Necessary; 180 Democrats, 108 Republicans for Submission.

TRANSPORTING INTO DRY STATES BARRED

Ratification to Be by State Conventions — Resolution to Provide for These Offered — Debate Brief but Fervid.

By CHARLES G. BOSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—By a margin of 15 votes more than the two-thirds required, the House this afternoon adopted the Senate resolution to propose to the states, for the action of specially called state conventions, an amendment repealing the eighteenth amendment, but carrying a proviso for the protection of dry states against the wet.

The vote was on a motion by Representative Rainey of Illinois, the moderate floor leader, to suspend the rules and adopt the Senate resolution which the Senate approved last week. In a hush markedly in contrast with the usual conditions under which the roll is called in the House, and with many of the members keeping private tallies, possibly to sign and hand down to their descendants as historic souvenirs, a clerk intoned the names of the members and they responded with their "ayes" and "noes."

The count showed 289 for the resolution and 121 against it—a result fully vindicating the prophesies of the wet leaders that the resolution would win by a substantial margin. Voting for the resolution were 180 Democrats, 108 Republicans and one Farmer Laborite. Against it were 32 Democrats and 89 Republicans. Only one of the Missouri delegation, Manlove (Rep.), Joplin, voted no. There was one switch, Hopkins (Rep.), St. Joseph, joining the repeal side after having voted dry on Dec. 5.

Overturn From First Vote.

Immediately after the vote the wets broke into tumult of applause, and many in the galleries—galleries packed to overflowing—disregarding the warning of Speaker Garner at the beginning of the debate and joined in.

Garner's voice could hardly be heard above the din as he announced, at 1:30 p. m., that a two-thirds vote had been cast for the resolution and it had been adopted. Rarely has any vote in the House attracted the crowd that the repeal vote brought out. Long before the beginning of the session every seat in the galleries was taken, and guests were standing outside the doors. All but 38 of the total membership of the House—425—were present and answered to the call. A score of Senators were seated in the rear of the chamber.

When the House voted on the Garner "nausea appeal" proposal on the first day of this session, the count was 272 for and 144 against. The resolution failed then by six votes. Today's overturn was due in part to the binding action of the Democratic caucus last week, when all party members not specifically asking for exceptions were pledged to support the repeal resolution.

By the Convention Method.

The question of repeal now goes to the states. Three-fourths of the states must ratify by the convention method, before the proposed amendment can take effect. Action by the President on the resolution is not required.

Vice-President Curtis last today signed the repeal submission resolution, which now goes to the State Department for the final routine action of formal transmittal to the 48 states for action by state conventions.

SENATE PASSES WAGNER RELIEF SUBSTITUTE BILL

Ballot on Measure Providing for Loans Instead of Gifts to States Is to 28.

RETAINS AID FOR TRANSIENT BOYS

La Follette Says Wagner Plan 'Will Prolong Semi-Starvation Standard of the Present.'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The Wagner bill, expanding the Federal Government's unemployment relief program, was passed today by the Senate.

The Senate had adopted the Wagner substitute for the La Follette-Costigan unemployment relief bill. The vote by which the Wagner substitute was adopted was 44 to 28. It provides for loans instead of gifts to the states.

The Senate retained in the Wagner unemployment relief bill the $15,000,000 provision for assisting needy transient youths. It rejected, without a record vote, a motion by Senator Dickinson (Rep., Iowa), to strike out the fund after Senators Wagner, Johnson, Cutting and Cullen had vigorously urged its retention.

Ashurst offered an amendment restricting relief under this provision to American citizens. It was rejected by a vote of 51 to 21. Patterson of Missouri voted for it. Clark voted against it. Dickinson's motion to kill the whole provision was then defeated.

By PAUL F. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Washington, Feb. 20.—The debate in the Senate on unemployment relief moved toward its conclusion today. At 4:30 p. m., members will vote on the question of whether Federal relief to the needy is to be extended in the form of direct gifts to the states, or whether additional relief loans are to be made to the states by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The choice was between the La Follette-Costigan bill, under which $500,000,000 would be granted directly to the states, and the Wagner substitute, which would increase from $500,000,000 to $600,000,000 the total which the R. F. C. is authorized to lend for relief purposes. The outcome was in doubt, although the Wagner substitute appeared to have the best chance.

The fight for direct grants was launched on the floor by the youthful Senator La Follette, Wisconsin Progressive, co-sponsor of the bill. Citing the testimony of numerous witnesses to show the measure of relief which has heretofore been extended by local agencies, La Follette declared that "Senators who vote for the Wagner substitute will be voting to prolong the semi-starvation standard of the present."

"Far Below Danger Point"

More than 3,000,000 families are now on public relief, he said, and the resources of private charity have been so far exhausted that it is now bearing only 12 per cent of the relief load while local agencies in a majority of instances have exhausted their tax resources. Standards of relief have fallen "far below the danger point."

Asking whether his colleagues realized what happens before an individual even applies for relief, La Follette said:

"First you lose your job. Your savings keep the family going for a time, and when they are gone you borrow on your insurance. When it lapses you give up your home and move to a one-room flat. You borrow from your relatives and friends. You stand off the butcher and the grocer and the milk man until they will give you nothing more for your wife and children to eat."

"Finally, after months of anguish and despair, you apply for relief, and after a careful investigation you are granted a food order for $4.00 a week. That is all. No rent is paid unless you have previously been evicted. There is no money for medicine or medical care except in extreme emergency cases. The light is cut off. The gas is disconnected. Perhaps even the water is shut off. There is no provision for clothing or shoes unless your condition is dire, and then only castoffs. I ask you, will you ever be the same man again? Will your wife ever be the same woman? What chance will your children have?"

"Filling Up Bills to Future."

"I say that by your failure to provide adequate relief, you are piling up bills to future."

Host's Snapshot of His Guest

up a bill to the future in social problems that stagger the imagination. The testimony shows that many men who have been put through this mill of degradation and suffering were unable to work when it was provided, and it is questionable whether many will ever regain their physical stamina and skill. But today a tenth of a population is living on that level, and the number is mounting at the rate of hundreds of thousands a month.

La Follette said that to continue the present system of relief as proposed in the Wagner plan "will contribute in the end to a breakdown of municipal government."

He said that, as a result of debts already contracted by the cities, health, fire and police protection and the operation of the schools have been threatened and in many instances seriously impaired.

Under the La Follette-Costigan bill $500,000,000 would be raised by the R. F. C. through the sale of bonds or debentures. Of this, $200,000,000 would be apportioned among the states in proportion to their population, $15,000,000 would be assigned for the care of needy transients, and the remainder would be apportioned when and where needed, by a board of three members appointed by the President. No state could receive an allotment greater than two-thirds of the total raised by local agencies.

Costigan Replies to Wagner.

Senator Costigan (Dem., Colorado), said Senator Wagner offered no defense of his substitute except that it was "the best that we can expect from this Congress." Costigan declared that "this insistence on a poorly administered, unbalanced and cruelly inadequate relief is extraordinary."

There is no assurance, he said, that the R. F. C. will handle the relief problem any better in the future than it has in the past. He challenged Wagner to deny that the La Follette-Costigan was a better measure than the substitute, and said Wagner would vote for it if it was an insurance policy.

Dickinson, old guard Republican of Iowa, opposed the provision of the bill providing $15,000,000 for the relief of transients. The thing to do, he said, was "tell them to go home."

"In God's name, where will they go?" exclaimed Johnson (Rep., California). They have no homes. If they had they wouldn't be on the road. At a recent period they were crossing the line into California at the rate of 1200 a day, and let me say to the Senator from Iowa, many of them were from his State. To say to a man whose home has been destroyed, whose substance is gone, "Go home," would be inhuman. "To tell a man in times like these to 'go home' is the same as telling him to go to hell," interjected Ashurst (Dem., Arizona). "To what home will he go?"

Cutting, millionaire New Mexico Progressive, inquired, "What greater duty the Government owes its citizens than keeping them alive?"

Then about half the Senate jumped down Dickinson's throat. Cousins of Michigan said it was "obvious the Senator from Iowa has no sympathy for any of the poor, sick or unemployed in this matter he has exhibited the same heartless attitude which we have come to expect."

Senator Glass (Dem., Virginia), asked the R. F. C. during debate, "I have cast my last vote for these temporary expedients for so-called relief," Glass said. "I would vote to abolish the R. F. C. at once. It hasn't been reconstruction corporation. It's been a destruction corporation. The agency for all except those states that don't expect to pay back."

"Where do you Senators expect this money to come from?" asked Glass. "It is to be picked out of the air, or come from some foreign Government? You talk about aiding the states. I am puzzled to know how you aid the states, if you tax the people in them, impound the money and then lend it back as the judgment of some Federal minions may dictate. The only way for the Federal Government to get money, unless it resorts to the printing press, is to take it from the pocketbooks of the people in the 48 states."

Wagner for Loans Not Grants.

Defending his substitute, Wagner said La Follette had been "tempted to overstate his own case" because of his enthusiasm.

"There is no difference between the two programs except that under my bill the advances are loans, while under the La Follette-Costigan bill the advances are outright grants," Wagner said.

The first amendment reached was that of Shipstead authorizing $25,000,000 for loans to private hospitals. This was defeated.

He rejected an amendment by Bulkley (Dem., Ohio), suggested by Glass, to strike out the limitation altogether and leave the interest rate for the board to determine.

MANILA, Feb. 20.—Two crazed Moros killed eight persons on the island of Tawi Tawi in the Southern Philippines before they themselves were shot down.

The men killed a Government clerk and a policeman in the town of Batubatu Saturday night. Then they fled to the hills, returning to town yesterday and killing three women, a child and two other persons. Terrorized two people locked themselves in their houses and sought other refuge until the killers were shot by local police.

Constabulary officers expressed no fear of general disorder among the Moros, holding that the outbreak was purely local. They said it was precipitated by an attempt to collect taxes from the two tribesmen.

LINDSAY HAS NEW DEBT CONFERENCE WITH ROOSEVELT

British Ambassador Goes to Home of Next President at Once on Return From London.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador, arrived at the East Sixty-fifth street home of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt this afternoon for another talk on war debts. Sir Ronald had been in London for a conference with his Government following his talk with Mr. Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga.

Rushed by cutter from the incoming steamer Majestic, he landed at the battery, went from there to the home of Cornelius N. Bliss, just a block from the Roosevelt home, and after a hurried telephone call walked to the residence of the President-elect.

His conference on war debts and the coming world economic conference started immediately after his arrival.

"Down Middle of Road."

Sir Ronald met interviewers on the Majestic and parried questions regarding the debt conference. Asked whether he was optimistic regarding the outcome, he said:

"Lots of difficulties and lots of common sense. There now."

Asked for an explanation of the Ambassador's reply:

"Well, a lot of common sense exists, just as difficulties do."

Pressed further, he said: "Straight down the middle of the road."

Sir Ronald said nothing had been determined regarding the personnel of the British delegation expected to come to the United States shortly after March 4.

Britain's Debt Attitude.

He declined to discuss the possibility of Premier Ramsay MacDonald coming for the conference. "Has there been any change in Great Britain's attitude on the debt question since you went to London?" he was asked. "I shouldn't think so," Sir Ronald replied. "I went over to find out what it was."

The Ambassador was accompanied by T. K. Bewly, newly appointed financial adviser to the British Embassy in Washington, and he was met at the British Embassy by Roger Makins of the British Embassy.

Hundreds See New York Tragedy; Rescuer Hurries Away in Wig.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Three of four boys who fell through the ice on the Bronx River near the Bronx Zoo entrance yesterday were drowned while hundreds of men, women and children looked on.

Police later recovered the bodies of Ralph Mazzuca, 12 years old; Frank Giamona, 10, and Tony Faro, 10.

James Borello, 14, said he and the others were walking on the ice when the two 10-year-olds broke through. As he and Ralph Mazzuca went to their aid, the ice gave way and they, too, fell in. Borello said a young man jumped in and pulled him out. Spectators said the rescuer hurried away in his wet clothes.

SIX FIRMS MADE IDENTICAL BIDS ON TIRES FOR STATE

Highway Official Tells Investigation Why Department Entered Open Market for Purchases.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 20.—Six leading tire companies submitted identical bids in 1930 for the State Highway Department's annual purchase of about $90,000 and drove the department into the open market. It was testified this morning before the Donnelly committee of the State Senate, which is investigating highway affairs.

J. A. Anderson, in charge of equipment purchases, told the committee he obtained competitive bids in 1929 for a one-year contract which was awarded to the Firestone company, which bid lowest. All of the bids are on a discount basis; that is, the companies agree to furnish the department with tires at a stipulated amount less than the service station price.

The department buys such a large quantity of tires that, by reason of the discount, it gets a wholesale rate.

The discount under the contract which Firestone won was 43 per cent, with 2 per cent more off for cash. However, in the open market at present, the department is receiving a discount of about 33 per cent, Anderson explained.

The companies which bid the same amount in August, 1930, were, according to the witness, "Goodyear, Flak, Kelly, Firestone, Goodyrich and, I believe, U. S."

When Senator Phil M. Donnelly questioned him, Anderson said he was buying in the open market at the present discount, "because I am inclined to believe the big companies kind of have their heads together. There's no use to have competitive bids when you can buy just as cheaply in the open market."

TREASURER SAYS W. C. T. U.
HAS JUST BEGUN TO FIGHT

"We'll Win in the End," Mrs. Munns Declares After Vote for Repeal.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—The Women's Christian Temperance Union's treasurer, Mrs. Margaret C. Munns, said today when informed the national house had passed the Senate repeal resolution, "we have just begun to fight."

"Win or lose, we'll go on fighting," she said, "following the lead of the women who have fought for 15 minutes after the battle is over."

"What if Congress did vote for repeal? We'll fight every step of the way and we'll win in the end because our cause is just. It takes 36 states to ratify repeal."

Mrs. Munns said ratification of repeal by the states was "not impossible," but went on to attribute the congressional action to "hygiene growing out of the depression."

ing to quote from a speech in the Senate by Sheppard, the "father" of the eighteenth amendment. The dry Rankin (Dem.), Mississippi, invoked the little used point of order against quotations from Senators on the floor of the House. Garner sustained the point.

All the familiar arguments for and against prohibition were brought out in condensed form. The burden of the dry contention was that adoption of the amendment would inevitably mean the return of the saloon. Tarver (Dem.), Georgia, taunted the wet converts. Some of them, he said, were having to "volunteer" for the holding of the proposed convention. Others say the matter should be left to the respective states.

Though the convention method of ratification is specifically authorized in the Constitution, it has never before been employed. All previous ratifications have been by State Legislatures. Representative Beck (Rep.), Pennsylvania, an anti-prohibitionist leader, called attention to this fact in today's brief debate, saying that for the first time in connection with an amendment of the Constitution the people would have a chance to give direct expression to their will.

Immediately after the adoption of the Rainey resolution, Representative Sumners (Dem.), Texas, introduced a resolution to set up machinery for constitutional conventions in the states. Under this plan the number of delegates to a state convention would be the same as the number of that state's presidential electors, that is, one delegate for every Senator and Representative.

The delegates would be elected at large, and their qualifications would be the same as those for presidential electors. The date for the conventions is left blank in the Sumners measure.

The quiet in the chamber when the vote was taken contrasted with scenes of disorders at the opening of the session. A buzz of talk on the floor and in the galleries made it impossible for speakers to be heard. Members milled restlessly about the floor. The irrepressible Blanton (Dem.), Texas, made a charge of the dry leaders, brought shouts of laughter with the cry: "Let me have the mace and I'll set them down."

Finally Garner gavelled the chamber into comparative order, and arrangements were made for the division of time, only 40 minutes under the stringent suspension procedure—between wets and dries. Rainey had the allotment of time for the wets and Moore (Rep.), Ohio, for the dries.

Time was doled out to the various speakers in one and two minute allotments. Each of them, however, under a unanimous consent order, were given five days in which to "revise and extend" their remarks in the record.

Those who voted for the resolution today but who did not vote in the previous Garner proposal were: Abernethy (Dem.), North Carolina; Arenz (Rep.), Nevada; Douthett (Rep.), Pennsylvania; Felt (Dem.), Arkansas; Folk (Dem.), Ohio; Ragon (Dem.), Arkansas; Stull (Rep.), Pennsylvania; Tamm (Dem.), Colorado; and Tamm (Dem.), Arkansas.

FRANCIS A. DREW,
KILLED BY AUTO
DIES OF INJURIES

Investment Broker Struck Crossing Lindell Boulevard on Way to Church Yesterday Morning.

FOURTH BROTHER TO MEET VIOLENT DEATH

Driver, Who Says Victim Stepped in Front of Car, Gives Bond Pending Inquest Tomorrow.

Francis A. Drew, investment broker and a member of a socially prominent family, died last night at St. Louis Hospital of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile while crossing Lindell boulevard on his way to St. Francis Xavier church yesterday morning.

Drew was the fourth son of the late Francis A. Drew, glass manufacturer and banker, to meet a violent death.

Drew walked into the path of an automobile driven east by Lindell street photographer, who struck him at the intersection of Lindell and Market streets. The accident occurred at 5:45 a.m. on the boulevard at 545 S. Olive.

Drew was walking east toward the Grand boulevard crossing. He was following him and did not see the car until it was too late to cross the street until he heard the car hit Drew. Krause and Hamm carried the unconscious man to the curb. Police arrived soon afterward and took Drew to St. Louis Hospital.

Member of Brokerage Firm. Drew was 37 years old. He was secretary and member of the firm of Festus J. Wade Jr. & Co., investment brokers with offices in the Columbia Building. He resided at 2333 Waterman avenue with his wife, Mrs. Adelaide Gross Drew, and 2-year-old daughter, Adelaide.

He attended St. Louis University and St. Mary's University and, when the United States entered the World War, left college to enlist in the 28th Field Artillery, Thirty-fifth Division. On his return from overseas service he was employed by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. He joined the Wade firm when it was organized four years ago. In his college days Drew was an outstanding tennis player.

With Drew when he died were his wife and three of his sisters, Mrs. James Platt, Mrs. H. Burgoyne Wilson and Mrs. Leigh Wickham. Other sisters are Mrs. Ephron Catlett of New York and Madame Mary Ann Drew of the Sacred Heart convent at New Orleans. Funeral services will be from the St. Louis Cathedral at a time to be announced.

Four of Family Killed. Francis A. Drew Sr., member of the City Council and president of the Grand Avenue Bank, died in 1910. His wife, Mrs. Emma Barnett Drew, died the following year. They had 12 children, five of whom were sons. One died in boyhood. Tankerville Joseph Drew was killed in 1910, five months after his father's death, when an automobile in which he was riding with Andrew W. Johnson, son of Jackson Johnson, shoe manufacturer, skidded from Wells drive in Forest Park and upset in Haberstroh culvert, a drop of about 30 feet.

Andrew Drew, former Post-Dispatch reporter, who became interested in flying at Kinloch Field, was killed in June, 1913, when his airplane crashed in flames at Litan, O., where he was operating a flying school.

George I. Drew, a former St. Louis University football captain, died in 1924 of a skull injury suffered in falling on an icy sidewalk near his residence, 14 North Kingshighway.

NEW SYSTEM OF PREPARING VOTERS' LISTS IS APPROVED

Appellate Court Sanctions Planographing, but Election Board Defers Action.

The St. Louis Court of Appeals has ruled use of the planographing system instead of printing in preparation of precinct lists of voters for the Election Board is legal. This decision reverses an opinion by Circuit Judge Hall that planographing was illegal in a suit by officers of the Allied Printing Trades Council.

However, the Election Board decided today not to award a contract for the lists, leaving the new board, soon to take office, free to decide which method shall be employed. Last week the Governor named the new board, including only one member of the old board, but the Senate has not yet confirmed the appointments. The old board had appealed from Judge Hall's decision.

A bid for planographing the lists by a method involving photography and lithographing, at $18.75 per thousand names, was received last November from John S. Swift Co., Inc. The lowest bid for printing was $21.25 per 1000, from Von Hoffman Press. On lists numbering about 400,000 names the difference would be about $1000. Printing had cost about $34.90 before use of planographing was proposed.

FOILING AUTOMOBILE THIEVES

Driver Says Armed Man Accused Him of Insulting Woman and Ordered Him Out of Car.

Morris Gabriel, 3117A Washington avenue, was about to start his automobile in front of 1621 Franklin avenue when a young woman, who limped, came up and said: "Where are you going?" Gabriel gave an indefinite answer and she asked: "What are you going to do tonight?"

Just then two men, one with a revolver, came up. The armed man said: "What do you mean by insulting my sister?" Gabriel pleaded that he had not offended them. Then the armed man ordered him out of the car, saying: "We've got to use this car." As he got out, Gabriel returned the keys and ran. He grabbed later and found the car still at the curb but the woman and the men had fled.

Gasoline Used in Cleaning Floor Flares; One of Victims Seriously Burned.

Three Negro city firemen were burned, one of them seriously, while using gasoline as a floor-cleaning fluid at the house of Engine Co. No. 28, 3934 Enright avenue, at 11:30 a. m. today.

The men were scrubbing grease spots from the floor when the gasoline vapor flared, ignited, apparently by a pilot light in a cooking stove in the kitchen.

Paul Bishop, 29 years old, 2831 Lacade avenue, was said by hospital attendants to be seriously burned on the head and upper body. Paul Saurbush and Morris Davison, also members of the engine company, were sent to their homes after emergency treatment. The engine house was not damaged.

CERMAK GAINING,
SPECIALIST SAYS
HE WILL RECOVER

Doctor Arrives From Chicago Finds No Evidence of Pneumonia or Infection.

By the Associated Press. MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20.—After consultation with the five physicians attending Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, Dr. Frederick Tice, Chicago heart specialist, issued a statement saying: "I believe we may look forward to full recovery of the Mayor."

Dr. Tice arrived here at 8:30 a. m. and went immediately to the bedside.

Dr. T. W. Hutson, first of attending physicians to visit Mayor Cermak this morning, said the Mayor had spent a somewhat restless night.

"After conferring with the physicians and surgeons in charge of Cermak's case, looking over the record and after my own examination, it is my opinion that he is slowly but gradually improving."

"Physical examination reveals no evidence of pneumonia or infection."

"While there is some evidence of heart strain, there is nothing to cause anxiety. I believe we may look forward to a full recovery of the Mayor."

At 8 a. m. the Mayor's temperature was 98.2, pulse 80, respiration 22.

Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois, who made a hurried trip and arrived at his friend's bedside Saturday night, departed for Springfield with assurances the Mayor's condition was improved.

The Governor, who found Cermak propped up on an elbow turning the pages of a book last night, said the Mayor "realizes now he is making a winning fight."

An official bulletin, issued by the five attending physicians before they left the hospital last night, said Cermak's pulse was 84, respiration 20 and temperature 100. The temperature was held due to absorption from injured tissue, and had dropped from 100.4 earlier in the night.

"There is no evidence of pneumonia or heart failure," the bulletin said. Meanwhile Dr. T. W. Hutson, one of the Cermak physicians who is attending Mrs. Joe H. Gill, also wounded by one of the assassin's bullets, said her progress was satisfactory.

Gov. Horner visited briefly with Mrs. Gill before his departure, saying she was "in fine spirits."

"I told her that everybody is pulling for her recovery," said the Governor. She "is a fine type of American womanhood."

ASSASSIN ZANGARA

GETS 80 YEARS ON

PLEA OF GUILTY

he turned earnestly to Morehead. "You make people think I'm fool."

After reading of the charges, Zangara was taken to his seat and attorneys explained Giuseppe was an Italian name and Joe was the same thing in English.

Twyman stated immediately after the verdict: "Your honor, my client has insisted his guilt."

"He has one gruesome regret."

"He is sorry he did not succeed in his attempt on the life of President-elect Roosevelt."

"He scoffs at the idea that he may be insane."

"He says, 'No, no, I am not crazy' when we ask him if he thinks he's insane."

Twyman detailed the action of defense attorneys in seeking a sanity commission's report upon Zangara's mental state.

"After talking with the doctors and with Zangara we came to the conclusion he could be nothing but sane," Twyman said.

"We want to present Giuseppe Zangara to Your Honor here and now so he may tell us the facts and circumstances of his story and of the night in question," Twyman went on. He halted momentarily when Associate Defense Counsel J. M. McCaskill suggested that the sanity commission's report be read into the record.

"This is a condensed statement of 11 lines," Twyman went on. "But because every word means something it will read it."

He did. The report, written by Doctors I. H. Agre and T. Earl Moore, referred to Zangara as a "social misfit" and as a "psychopathic personality."

Judge Collins consented to hear a statement by Zangara after the latter pleaded guilty to the charges.

"Until I feel bad."

Zangara went to the witness stand, gave his name, his age as 33 and said he had been in the United States 10 years next September.

"I worked in Jersey as bricklayer until I began to feel bad," Zangara stated in broken English. "My father live in Italy. I no remember my mamma. She died when I was 2 years old."

"Were you ever in jail before?" the Judge asked. "No, no, never."

"When did you plan to kill the President?" "I suffer all the time from my stomach. I no like the way capitalists take all money. When I read in paper the President come here I decide to kill him."

"I decided to kill and make him suffer. I want to make it 50-50. Since my stomach hurt I get even with capitalists by kill the President. My stomach hurt long time. Don't you want to live?" the Judge asked.

Zangara shrugged his shoulders, saying: "I no care. I sick all time. I just think maybe cops kill me if I kill President. Somebody hit my arm when I try it."

"My stomach afire all time."

Attorney Rala, who speaks Italian, helped Zangara to clarify his statements.

"Did you know what you were doing the night you shot at the President?" Rala asked. "Sure I know. I gonna kill President. I take picture the President in my pocket when I go to the park. I no want to shoot Cermak or anybody except Roosevelt."

"I aimed at him. I shoot at him. But somebody moved my arm. They fools. They should let me kill him."

"Have American people been kind to you?" asked the Judge. "No."

"Yes, everybody."

"Do you regret what you did?" Rala asked. "Sure I sorry I no kill him. But he's the Judge—he do what he want to."

"I think that's enough," Judge Collins said.

Then he asked "Mr. Solicitor, is there any reason sentence should not be passed?"

Defense Counsel Rala asked to make a statement.

Baileys waved the crowd back to the seats.

"We are fully determined that the plea we have entered for our client is correct," the lawyer said, "but this man's mental state presents a puzzle."

Cermak Comments on Speed. Cermak said: "They certainly mete out justice pretty fast in this State," when he was informed that Zangara had been sentenced to 80 years' imprisonment.

"If the law could be enforced thus swiftly in other states so as to speed up trials, it would have a great tendency to check crime," Cermak said.

"That's fine," said Russell Caldwell, another bullet victim, "He had it coming to him, though I thought he should hang."

"That's O K with me," was the comment of William J. Sinnott, New York policeman, "but I still believe he is a member of some secret society and should be investigated further."

FATHER OF DENVER KIDNAPING VICTIM IS IGNORING POLICE

Checks for $65,000 Signed With Elder Boettcher's Name Said to Have Passed Through Bank.

By the Associated Press. DENVER, Colo., Feb. 20.—Firm in decision to act independently of authorities and pay the $65,000 ransom demanded, Claude K. Boettcher, multi-millionaire father of Charles Boettcher II, kidnaped broker, ignored police criticism of his action today and refused to disclose the contents of notes which he said convinced him his son was alive and well.

The Denver Post said it had learned from an employee of the Boettcher-Newton Co., in which the missing man was a partner, that three checks, totaling $65,000 and signed by the elder Boettcher, had passed through a Denver bank during the morning.

It was presumed, the Post said, the $60,000 was for ransom and the $5000 for the reward which the father posted the night of the abduction.

Victim's Father Ignores Police. Boettcher's signed statement in which he said, "I feel I must and will act independently if the opportunity is presented," brought from Chief of Police A. T. Clark a declaration that if the Boettcher family "concedes the demands of the kidnapers and pays the $60,000 ransom, it will have a bad effect on law enforcement not only in Denver but throughout the nation."

"The police feel they can do little without the co-operation of the Boettcher family," Clark said. "I am very sorry to hear that the Boettcher family intends to negotiate with the kidnapers independently of police. From the standpoint of public safety it is not the thing to do."

Gets Taken From Son. One of the notes which Boettcher received from the kidnapers contained, he said, a token which Boettcher knew belonged to his son. He declined to tell police what the token was. He disclosed that his letter in reply to the kidnapers had asked them to establish contact with a reliable intermediary who, Boettcher said, would pay the ransom.

as an intermediary for the family, declined to confirm rumors that he had received three letters from the kidnapers containing enclosures for the elder Boettcher.

Connection between the kidnaping and the assassination Saturday of Joseph P. Roma, local gang leader, was becoming less and less apparent as the Roma investigation progressed, Clark said. He at first thought Roma might have been slain because of confidences he held with Clark in the Boettcher case. Roma, Clark said, was not connected with the kidnaping, but was summoned to confer with the Chief, who remembered his activity as a possible intermediary in the Benjamin P. Bower kidnaping a year ago.

3 SHOT TO DEATH IN SPEAKEASY IN BROADWAY ZONE

Newsboy Finds Bartender, Escaped Convict and Young Woman Slain in 'Porky's Place,' New York

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—John Sweeney, peddling his papers, pushed into the midtown speakeasy known as "Porky's Place" early today. On the floor before the bar lay the bodies of a young woman and of John Egan, escaped convict from Sing Sing Prison, and behind the bar was the body of Michael Griffin, bartender.

Each had been killed by a shot in the right side of the head.

Fingerprints identified the woman as Dorothy Miller, alias Dorothy McCarthy, about 28, a former inmate of Bedford Reformatory.

On the bar were four $1 bills and some silver—apparently change from a larger bill given in payment for drinks. In the inside pocket of Egan's coat was a loaded pistol.

The shootings were all at close range. There were powder burns on the heads of all three of the victims. The place showed no signs of disorder. Robbery was not the motive, for money in the cash register and in the men's pockets had not been touched.

Police said the killer or killers must have escaped by way of a back yard from which egress is possible to Eighth avenue. The yard were found two pencils and a gray fedora hat. It was recalled that earlier this month a pencil was the clew that led to solution of the murder of an 8-year-old girl on Long Island.

"Porky's Place," police said, has been in business for five years. It has been popular with the Broadway "dawn patrol" and especially with the sporting crowd. The speakeasy, masked by the somber brownstone front, is across the street from the Alvin Theater. A few doors to the east is the playhouse of the Theater Guild. It is between Eighth avenue and Broadway.

MOB SEIZES NEGRO AND LYNCHES HIM AT RINGGOLD, LA.

Victim Said to Have Confessed Trying to Attack White Woman and Killing Her Husband in Fight.

By the Associated Press. RINGGOLD, La., Feb. 20.—A Negro identified as Nelson Nash, 24 years old, of Leesville, La., was seized and lynched by a mob here yesterday. Officers said the Negro had confessed that he entered the home of J. P. Bachelor, 50, cashier of the Ringgold Bank, early yesterday and forced Bachelor and his wife to take him to the bank and open the doors.

When Bachelor told the Negro he could not open the vault he forced Mr. and Mrs. Bachelor, still in their nightclothes, to accompany him about a mile north of the town, where he attempted to attack the woman.

Bachelor grappled with the Negro as his wife ran to a nearby cabin for aid. Bachelor was severely beaten on the head. He died of his injuries.

Several hundred citizens organized posse and captured Nash 15 miles away and returned him back to Ringgold. The mob took the Negro to the scene of the killing, hanged him and riddled his body with bullets.

Negro, Beaten, Dies at Alken, S. C.; Four White Men Arrested.

By the Associated Press. ALKEN, S. C., Feb. 20.—George Jeter, Negro, died yesterday from a beating given him by a group of white men last Tuesday. Four men were arrested accused as his assailants. The prisoners are Stamp Floyd, Jim Hancock, Jim Patterson and W. M. Hitt, all of the northern part of the county where Jeter lived.

Officers quoted members of Jeter's family as saying he had named those arrested as the men who beat him and said they had accused him of stealing liquor from them.

MILK STRIKE PICKETS ROUTED WITH TEAR GAS BY DEPUTIES

Several Officers Hurt in Clash to Prevent Dumping of Truck.

By the Associated Press. WAUKESHA, Wis., Feb. 20.—Tear gas bombs thrown by Waukesha County Sheriff's deputies today routed milk strike pickets at New Butler. Several officers and strikers were injured in a fight around a Milwaukee-bound milk truck. Henry Braatz, farmer of Brookfield, was arrested. Officers charged he pummeled Deputy John Morris. Fifty farmers stopped a truck by stretching a rope across the highway. They were dumping the milk when a squad of deputies arrived. The pickets who are demanding a price of 8 cents a quart for milk brushed aside the officers when they tried to interfere. The deputies then released the tear gas and the farmers scattered.

Other milk trucks continued to Milwaukee under the protection of deputies. Later another squad of deputies engaged with pickets in a second fight and three more were arrested. Sheriff Morris deputized special officers and at noon had 35 deputies posted along highways, instructed to halt the dumping of milk. It was estimated that from 20 to 25 trucks were dumped in the county this morning.

JUDGE DECLINES TO GIVE RULING ON REWARD FOR LOOT

ties compounded a felony or became accessories after the crime, we have no hesitation in concluding that they consummated a transaction that cannot be justified under the law. The question of how close illegality must be woven into a transaction in order to taint it, is often difficult to determine. The principle to be applied is that of general public policy, and the inquiry is not alone as to the effect of a particular transaction, but whether its tendency is in the direction of public detriment.

Declares Agreement Illegal.

"The illegality of an agreement depends on an affirmative answer to the question, 'Is the consummation of this class of transactions against public policy?' There can be but one answer to this question. The general approval of the course of conduct adopted in this case will result in the breakdown of the administration of criminal law, and render society absolutely helpless before the criminal class.

"This lawsuit arises as the result of the recovery of stolen property in the manner above stated. Where it is necessary, as here, to prove an unlawful undertaking in order to maintain an action, the courts will not enforce it, nor will they enforce alleged rights springing from it.

"They should decline to supervise distribution among wrongdoers of spoils derived from unlawful conduct. The defense of illegality need not be set up by either party. The court acts in its own protection, and will refuse to stultify itself.

Davis' Opinion.
In the first part of his opinion, Judge Davis sets forth, from the testimony, the fact that the bonding company issued a $150,000 bond for the bank's protection, and that after the robbery it paid $125,000. After the recovery of the bonds, the bonding company claimed a refund of the difference between the $125,000 it had paid and the $46,896 cash which had not been recovered. Some minor deductions brought the claim down to $77,104. The bank was willing to pay only a part of this refund claim, and the suit was filed. After his review of the evidence, the court says:

"On Jan. 15, 1931, the plaintiff (bonding company) and the defendant (bank) agreed to pay, and the robbers agreed to accept, $140,000 for the return of the bonds. This sum was to be paid, and was paid by the bank. But the president of the bank asserts, and the bonding company's resident vice-president (Myers) denies, that the plaintiff bonding company was to pay its pro rata share of this amount.

"After the amount was agreed upon and put up by the bank in the hands of plaintiff's resident vice-president (Myers), further negotiations as to time, place and manner of delivery were largely in the judgment and discussion of Myers.

"During these dealings Myers took the list of stolen bonds as prepared by the bank, and, had the people who had the bonds to check against this list (and they reported back to Myers) that they had all of the bonds listed and approximately $20,000 more. They were 'honorable men.'

Ransom Paid.
"The bonds were delivered to the resident vice-president of the plaintiff (bonding company), but when, where and by whom, the evidence does not disclose. Plaintiff turned all of the securities over to the president of the defendant bank in the safe deposit vault of a downtown bank on Feb. 20, 1931.

"The ransom paid, the delivery of the bonds completed, the police were called safely to convey the property to the defendant bank.

"Plaintiff (bonding company) stresses the point that it did not agree to pay any portion of the ransom, on theory, presumably, that it acted in good faith, and is not tainted with even the least impropriety. But it must not be overlooked that plaintiff was equally interested with defendant (bank) in the return of the bonds. It had paid a substantial indemnity for loss of the securities, and, according to the terms of the bankers' blanket bond, was entitled to be reimbursed in event of the recovery of the stolen property.

Myers' Trip to East.
"The resident vice-president (Myers) made a trip East, where advice was sought from superior officers as to the course to be pursued in this matter. It was in furtherance of instructions thus received that he consummated negotiations that led to the recovery of the stolen bonds.

"The president of the bank had no information of this particular subject, save such as Myers communicated, and Myers was very cautious and circumspect, by no means revealing all the facts in his possession.

"Consequently, the fact that plaintiff says it did not agree to pay any part of the ransom is not of particular importance. Plaintiff and defendant, both having a pecuniary interest, mutually and jointly consummated the recovery and are equally responsible for participating in that transaction whatever may be its character.

"Plaintiff ought not to be heard to say 'Sir, it was my partner that made that bargain, not myself.'" the community were furnished no information about the plan in prospect. A proper inference from the testimony is that plaintiff (bonding company) and defendant (bank) purposely withheld and concealed from the officers of the law all information in their possession about the significant fact that the agent of the robbers was known, and that the parties to this suit were planning to turn over an immense sum of money for the production and return of the securities.

"The Court is importuned by both parties to view this as an ordinary business transaction and adjudicate the rights of the parties as they have been altered by the return of the stolen property.

"These litigants take their stand on high ground and consistently refused to yield that advantage. They cannot be induced to mention or even contemplate such odious terms as 'theftbabe' or 'compounding a felony.'

"The Missouri statute, Section 3894, provides that any agreement or understanding expressed or implied, to compound or conceal such crime or to abstain from any prosecution therefor, or withhold any evidence thereof, shall constitute an offense. Such an undertaking may, and usually must, be implied or inferred from the circumstances existing in any particular case. A formal agreement is by no means necessary.

Illegal Contracts.
"For this undertaking to pay money and recover stolen property to come under the ban of the law, it is not at all necessary that it should amount to the offense of compounding a felony. There are many illegal contracts that fall short of being crimes.

"Contracts which tend to interfere with the impartial exercise of Government functions, to defraud, to give a preference to a debtor, to pass the goods of one maker to another, are instances of transactions that may be illegal but that may not be crimes.

"The failure of one having knowledge of the commission of a felony to reveal his information to someone in authority is a crime under the Federal statutes and the same thing is true in some of the states. To advertise for the return of stolen goods, 'no questions asked,' has been held to amount to a crime, and in some jurisdictions is prohibited by statute.

"An undertaking that has for one of its purposes the suppression of evidence is illegal, no matter whether the evidence relates to civil action or to a criminal prosecution.

The same is true of any sort of agreement that has as its object the adding of a criminal to a suspect or concealing the fact that a person has violated or is violating the criminal law.

"Neither can it be doubted that a contract based upon a promise or agreement to conceal or keep secret a crime, which has been committed, is opposed to public policy and offensive to the law."

Boy Burglar to Reformatory.

Charles Metzger, 17 years old, of National City, Ill., was sentenced today at Belleville to a year to life in Pontiac Reformatory on a plea of guilty to a charge of burglary. He admitted breaking into a clothing store at 92 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, and taking merchandise valued at $300.

MISSOURI ROAD JOBS GIVE WORK TO 8000

Employment on 300 New Contracts in January Reported by U. S. Department.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Organized efforts by relief committees in Missouri gave work to many people in January and about 8000 men were employed on 300 new highway contracts, the United States Department of Labor has reported. Operations and employment in most industrial establishments throughout the State continued below normal, the report said.
The supply of labor in practically all sections exceeded the demand, it was explained. "Plants producing cement, culvert pipe and other road building material employed about 1800 workers."

The survey at St. Joseph showed no improvement in employment over the subnormal level of December. "Most of the factories operated on a restricted basis," the report said.
Other information by cities:
St. Louis—No improvement in industrial employment was reported, although the boot and shoe and chemical industries increased production. Flour mills also slightly increased operations, while meat-packing houses operated full time. . . . Manufacturers of millinery and women's and men's clothing reported a noticeable increase in employment. . . . Several new small industrial plants were established, each employing a number of workers.

Kansas City—The general level of manufacturing activities improved slightly during the past 30 days. Work on highway projects declined somewhat. Plants that operated maintained reduced schedules with mining forces engaged. . . . Several miscellaneous concerns reported small additions to their forces.

Springfield—Building was confined chiefly to a hospital which was nearing completion, effecting the release of some of these workers. Building permits issued were for small residences and garages, totaling about $13,000 in value. Employment in the railroad shops improved somewhat, and 35 furloughed employees were recalled. The industrial plants were in operation, but no increase in forces was reported.

Joplin—Employment in the lead and zinc mines showed no improvement, while a reduction in forces occurred in the smelter plant and rotative schedules were adopted. The machine shops, printing plants and most of the other industrial concerns operated on reduced schedules.

The report shows that $1,516,384 in taxes were paid in Missouri by borrowing railroads.

The corporation was organized Feb. 2, 1932. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation act authorized it to acquire resources of $2,000,000,000 later increased by the emergency relief and construction act to $3,000,000,000. Of this amount, it had acquired $1,395,000,000 in cash up to the close of business on Jan. 31, 1933, all of which had been furnished by the Treasury of the United States.

This financing had been accomplished by selling to the Treasury, as required by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act, the entire authorized capital stock of $500,000,000 and by borrowing $895,000,000 from the Treasury on notes. The notes thus far issued bear 3 1/2 per cent interest, and the corporation had paid the Treasury $7,802,304.11 in interest up to the close of business on Oct. 31. An additional $6,976,027.26 had accrued but was not due on Jan. 31.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Jack Morse, 18 years old, student at the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., who has been missing since classes reconvened after the Christmas recess, returned to his home here yesterday.

NEW TREATMENT FOR EXPECTANT AND NURSING MOTHERS

When a baby is expected, laxatives must not be used. Mothers must not take them as long as she is carrying or nursing the little one. Doctors will tell you that laxative drugs taken by the mother are a danger to baby. It is a crime to risk your baby's health. That is why they so often advise Cream of Nujol.

This new form of Nujol is especially suitable for expectant and nursing mothers because it does not upset the stomach or cause cramps and does not pass into the milk.

If you are expecting a baby, take the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment night and morning. It is kind to the delicate bowel membranes, and being free of drugs, it is safe for you and your child. Moreover, it is delicious and easy to take.

At a cost of only a few cents a day it will make you "as regular as clockwork," and protect the health of your child. Buy it at any drug counter.

S. L. WIMER TO OPEN CAMPAIGN TONIGHT

Mayorality Candidate to Address 13th Ward Republican Club.

Samuel L. Wimer, independent candidate for Mayor, will make his first speech in the campaign before the Thirteenth Ward Independent Republican Club at 13th and Locust street, tonight. He will discuss his platform. Wimer, who resigned last Friday as Republican Alderman from the Twenty-seventh Ward on entering the mayorality race, opened campaign headquarters in suite 217-19 Title Guaranty Building today. His brother, William E. Wimer, an insurance agent, is in charge of the office.

Wimer has given friends about 40 nominating petitions to circulate for him. Each petition bears space for 100 voters' signatures. He said today about half of the petitions had been returned, fairly well filled. The petitions must be filed with the Election Board by March 20 with at least 4212 valid signatures.

Mrs. Irving R. Rouse, wife of an orchestra leader, has been made head of the women's division of the campaign organization of Jerome F. Duggan, lawyer, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Mayor. The women's division will have offices in the Warwick Hotel, separate from the general campaign headquarters there. Next Friday afternoon it will give a tea in honor of Mrs. Duggan.

The club women's unit of the campaign organization of President Neun of the Board of Aldermen, a candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor, met today at the campaign office, Seventh and Locust streets. The unit has 200 workers. The Committee of 670, a city-wide group of men supporting Neun, plans 10 meetings this week, ending with a rally and dance at Alhambra Grotto, Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue, Saturday night.

Various civic and political groups have endorsed Phil H. Brockman, automobile dealer, Neun's opponent on the Republican ticket. Brockman's manager announces. More Brockman-for-Mayor clubs, he says, have been formed.

Bernard F. Dickmann, president of the Real Estate Exchange, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Mayor, addressed the Negro Y. M. C. A. at 2846 Pine boulevard yesterday. He discussed the delay of the Republican administration in building the new Negro City Hospital and his efforts last year to have real estate assessments reduced.

$600,000 COMMUNITY FUND APPEAL MADE OVER RADIO

E. G. Steger Says Character Building Agencies Raise Only Half of Budgets by Campaign

The $600,000 of the Community Fund's campaign for character building agencies is a little less than half of their 1933 budgets, it was said yesterday by E. G. Steger, director of the fund. Steger, speaking on the Community Forum period over KSD, explained the balance came from fees paid by those able to pay, and from private sources of revenue, such as endowments.

On the same program, F. M. Underwood, Assistant Superintendent of Schools, declared the effects of character building activities are manifest in the conduct of school children. He told of one instance in which a high school Y. M. C. A. organization took the initiative in suppressing cheating in examinations.

SHOOTS HIS ESTRANGED WIFE, MAN AT PARTY

Lewis Oliver, Son of Senator Fatally Hurt in Scuffle With Her Brother, Held.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Mrs. Barbara Ritchie Oliver, 28 years old, was seriously shot, and Wilmer Holbrook, 27, was wounded last night by her estranged husband, who broke up a bridge party in the Ritchie family home in Fairfax County, Virginia. Her husband, Lewis Oliver, son of the late State Senator Walter T. Oliver, was held in the Fairfax County jail.

A shotgun charge was fired into Mrs. Oliver's face and chest. Holbrook was shot in the leg.

Police said the shooting was another flare-up in ill-feeling between the families which began with the marriage of Barbara Ritchie and Lewis Oliver. Each now is seeking the custody of their 3-month-old baby.

Two months ago Senator Oliver was fatally injured in a scuffle with Lewis Ritchie, brother of Barbara. Ritchie was charged with felonious homicide, but the grand jury did not hold him.

Lewis Oliver was arrested in Baltimore last November on charges of assault brought against him while his wife was living there.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 a. m. Wednesday at St. Boniface Church, 7815 Michigan avenue, with burial in Mount Olive Cemetery.

Four Oil in Store, Is Badly Burned Samuel Huffstader, 54 years old, a private watchman, was severely burned on the arms, legs and chest when he poured kerosene into a stove at his home, 800 Bates street, early yesterday. The flames set fire to the house, causing $30 damage.

Colds can be ABORTED

(Try this with lemon juice)

Don't waste time with cold remedies that don't produce results. If you want to end your cold, abort it. Try the lemon juice treatment. Squeeze two full-size lemons in a large glass of very hot water and drink without sugar. First, take three tablets of Pape's cold compound an hour apart. This clears the head, dries the nasal passages, reduces any fever. The lemon juice then neutralizes acidity and helps build up the system. Bedtime is best. This treatment will often abort a cold overnight. One cold compound tablet will often check a cold, for several hours; then when night comes you can get real relief and often abort it. Any druggist has Pape's cold compound. It's perfectly safe. Try it, and you'll never go back to half-way remedies.

ROBBERS CAUGHT AT DOOR OF THIRD BAPTIST CHURCH

Two Policemen Surprise Pair With 400-Pound Strong Box Ready to Be Hauled Away.

Two men, one a former convict, were captured at a side door of the Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington boulevards, following a safe robbery early today. A third man escaped after being fired at by a patrolman.

Patrolmen Edward Pelker and James Rovane were walking in the neighborhood and Pelker had gone to the rear of the church. As he came around the back to a gangway between the church and the Missouri Theater, he saw two men at the side door. Before he could get to them, the third man ran out of the church, leaped by Pelker and fled. The one shot Pelker fired at attracted Rovane and the two officers captured the men at the door.

Investigation showed a steel strong box, weighing about 400 pounds, was at the church door ready to be taken away. The burglars had broken the lock on the church door, had opened a large safe to remove the strong box and apparently had decided to haul the strong box away after having failed to beat it open. A sledge hammer, pinch bar, two chisels and a bricklayer's hammer were at the church door. The strong box contained envelopes with individual contributions made yesterday.

The prisoners, each of whom had a revolver, refused to make statements. They said they were William Tierney, 31 years old, who served six years in the Missouri Penitentiary for robbery, and Julius Jensen, 24, 6419 Wells avenue. An automobile with a license issued to Tierney was found parked on Grand boulevard 100 feet north of the church.

Boy, 13, Caught Ransacking Home; Admits Previous Theft.
A 13-year-old boy who used a duplicate key to enter the home of Daniel Howard, 4420 Lafayette avenue, was caught yesterday afternoon by Howard's brother-in-law, Frank Archer, 4256 Swan avenue. Archer had heard a noise at the back door and hid in the bathroom until after the boy had entered the house and was ransacking a bedroom. The boy, according to police, admitted he had previously entered the house Feb. 12, taking $3.50 from a purse.

Samuel C. Thal, grocer, was struck on the head by two armed men who held him up at the door of his garage, a back of his home, 1203 Delaware avenue, Wellston, early yesterday. They took $9 and his revolver. He is a licensed private watchman.

William H. Hill, clerk in a drug store at 4256 Easton avenue, was held up last night by an armed Negro, who stole $20 from the cash register. The robber fled out a side door.

A hole was cut in the ceiling of a Kroger grocery at 6021 Manchester avenue by burglars who entered a vacant flat at 6023A Manchester, then a vacant flat above the store. A safe was broken open, but the burglars obtained no money. They took $87 worth of cigarettes and other merchandise.

The home of Theodore Koerner, 3814 South Compton avenue, was robbed of $280 in cash and jewelry valued at $120.

$301,657,000 NAVAL SUPPLY BILL IS REPORTED TO HOUSE
Proposed Appropriation $25,925,000 Below Current Year's Marine Corps' Strength Unchanged.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—A supply bill carrying $301,657,000 for the navy in the coming fiscal year was reported to the House today by its Appropriations Committee.

Providing for the maintenance of the marine corps at its present enlisted strength, but slashing flight pay for high ranking aviation officers, and making other economies, the measure is $25,925,000 below appropriations for the current year.

However, it provides $53,345,000 for construction, of which $35,849,000 is for an increase in the navy and the remainder for alterations and repairs of old vessels. The total is $7,012,000 less than President Hoover's budget estimates.

President Hoover's recommendation for a cut from 15,343 to 13,600 in the enlisted strength of the marine corps was rejected flatly by the House Appropriations Committee in considering the navy appropriation bill.

KANKAKEE, ILL., FARM SALE HALTED FOR SECOND TIME
700 Farmers Gather and Foreclosure Action Is Continued Indefinitely by Master.

KANKAKEE, Ill., Feb. 20.—Seven hundred farmers gathered today on the James Leutloff farm and halted a second attempt to hold a mortgage foreclosure sale.

"No farm foreclosures will be permitted in Kankakee County," said Fred Winterroth, leader of the farmers, after the sale had been continued indefinitely by Donald Gray, master-in-chancery.

Gray said he was instructed by the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Milwaukee, holder of the mortgage, to postpone the sale if a crowd gathered. There were no disorders.

At attempt to sell the farm at auction last week was prevented last Saturday when Gray was hauled from the rostrum by farmers as he called for bids.

APPROVES ELECTING ALDERMEN BY WARDS

Chamber of Commerce Also Favors Nominating Circuit Judges at Conventions.

Bills pending in the State Legislature which would provide for the election of Aldermen in St. Louis by wards and for the nomination of circuit and appellate judges by conventions, rather than primary elections, have been approved by the Executive Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

At present Aldermen in St. Louis represent wards, but are elected by city-wide vote. The effect has been to deprive the minority party of representation in the board except for the two Democratic Aldermen elected in the upset last November.

Through nominating judges in conventions, the chamber contends, the misuses of the primary system can be avoided. The bar association is cited as favoring the change.

Other pending bills approved by the chamber would authorize the Governor to appoint an economy and efficiency commission of seven to examine the workings of the State government and recommend changes; abolish the township as a unit of government in Missouri; require all State agencies to deposit their funds in the State treasury, and permit taxpayers in cities of more than 500,000 to pay school and general taxes in advance, obtaining a discount.

Bills disapproved would provide for a bi-partisan Board of Education for St. Louis with six members; authorize the State Board of Equalization to abolish taxes on real and personal property except for the blind pension, soldiers' bonus and interests on State bonds; abolish the Workmen's Compensation Commission; require employers to pay attorney and expert witness fees for employees in cases heard by the commission, and allow the employee, after an award by the commission, to decide whether to accept it or seek damages under the common law.

Pepsodent Antiseptic is three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics... hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money and gives you extra protection against colds and throat irritations. For protection against germs associated with common ills, remember there are really only two leading kinds of mouth antiseptics on the market. In the one group is the mouth antiseptic that must be used full strength to be effective. In the other group is Pepsodent Antiseptic, utterly safe even if used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with two parts of water and still kill germs within 10 seconds!

MAN WHO KILLED WIFE GETS TWO-YEAR TERM

Pleads Guilty After Charge Is Reduced From Second Degree Murder to Manslaughter.

Henry Busekrus, 53 years old, who killed his wife last April 30 at their home, 4803 Austria avenue pleaded guilty of manslaughter before Circuit Judge Hoffmeister today and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. He withdrew a previous plea of not guilty to a charge of second degree murder.

The sentence was recommended by Assistant Circuit Attorney Sullivan, who said quarrels between Busekrus and his wife for a month preceding the killing probably would have made a manslaughter instruction possible to a jury in a trial under the murder charge. Sullivan said the murder charge would have been hard to prove, for lack of eyewitnesses, and that the two-year sentence was approved by Mrs. Busekrus' son by a former marriage.

Mrs. Busekrus, who was 52, died at City Hospital three hours after her husband hit her on the head with a coal shovel. Busekrus, an unemployed stationary engineer, said they had quarreled over her gifts of money to her son. The husband told police at the time that he thought his wife was going to attack him with a knife.

Pleads Guilty of Shooting Wife, Gets Two Years.

Joseph R. Jones, 41, who shot and wounded his estranged wife at her restaurant at 5368 Natural Bridge avenue last Dec. 11, pleaded guilty today of assault to kill. Circuit Judge Landwehr sentenced him to two years in the penitentiary.

The shooting occurred when Jones went to the restaurant and ordered four ham sandwiches and a cup of coffee. As his wife went to the kitchen to prepare the food, he followed and fired a shot which missed. She attempted to disarm him and in the struggle was wounded in the chest and right arm. Their daughter, Geraldine, 19, was one of four persons in the restaurant at the time.

KILLS MAN, SHOTS ANOTHER IN FIGHT OVER DICE GAME

Nathan Barham, Negro, Says He Fired on Pair When They Attacked Him.

Dewey Boyd, 34 years old, a Negro, was fatally shot and William Wright, 37, also a Negro, wounded in a fight over dice and card games at 2745A Wash street last night. Nathan Barham, Negro, 2811 Franklin avenue, arrested later, admitted he shot the two men when they attacked him, police said.

Boyd, who resided at 2934 Morgan street, was pronounced dead on arrival at City Hospital No. 2. He was wounded in the chest. Wright, 618 North Beaumont street, is suffering from bullet wounds of the lower back, right arm and left leg.

INFLATION IS WAY OUT, SAYS HEAD OF FARM FEDERATION

Edward O'Neal Tells Senate Committee That Cessation of Gold Coinage Would Raise Prices.

ENGINEER ALSO
TAKES THE STAND

He Advocates Large Public Works Bond Issue to Stimulate Business and End the Depression.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The Senate Finance Committee, resuming its search for the road back to prosperity, today heard Edward O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, declare that dire things are in store for those who have heretofore dodged the depression, unless the Government adopts a policy of inflation. He specifically urged that the gold dollar be reduced in weight, that all gold coins be called in and that no more be coined.

The farm leader predicted that such a policy would result in an immediate rise of 45 per cent in price levels, with a corresponding rise in wages and employment.

Representative of Engineers.
At the same session, R. E. Flanders, who said he represented an organization of engineers which has been studying the economic causes of the depression for a year, expressed the opinion that the depression had "reached bottom" and was now "moving sideways."

Flanders declared that one of the main causes of the depression was the fact that too much of the profits of industry went into the pockets of owners and bankers and for the construction of new plants and not enough into purchasing power in the form of wages.

"Although a manufacturer and a Republican," Flanders said, he could see no valid objection to the domestic allotment plan of farm relief, as applied to wheat and cotton.

Declaring that the most critical problem before the nation was "the burden of debt left from the tremendous credit inflation of 1927-28-29," the witness said much of this debt had been liquidated and some had been assumed by the Government through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The remainder could not be liquidated until business increased. To stimulate business he urged a large public works bond issue, emphasizing that it would enable the country to acquire needed public works at a very low cost.

Attack on Deflationists.
O'Neal bitterly assailed those bankers whom he described as "bitter-end deflationists" and who, he said, have only three prescriptions for the depression—"reduce confidence, balance the budget and let nature take its course."

In the first place, he said, restored confidence must be followed by stabilized prices, not vice versa. In the second place, he could not see how the budget could be balanced so long as prices and wages decline and unemployment increases.

As to "letting nature take its course," he warned that "bitter-end deflationists" consider what that would mean. Agriculture and the holders of common stocks already have been "put through the wringer," he said, and future deflation must come at the expense of industry and city real estate.

"I am not certain that the eminent spokesmen for deflation understand what that would mean," he went on. "You will have to cut down the pay envelope of every worker. You will have to clip all salaries. You will have to scale down a large part of all private debt; for existing debts absolutely cannot be paid at the low price level. You will have to put up with wholesale defaults of public debt; indeed, hundreds of public units are already bankrupt. You will have to reduce taxes drastically, and you may have to reorganize the whole structure of Government. You will have to write down all costs and capitalizations, and while the process is going on it may be hoped that the load of corporate bankruptcies and failures will not drag the business ship completely under."

Predicts Wholesale Crashes.
"You will have to endure the shocks of further waves of security declines, of wholesale bank failures, of the crash of great commercial concerns and vanishing private fortunes. You will have to cut freight rates, whether you like it or not, and you will have to live through a chapter of railroad receiverships that might well appeal a bank, university or life insurance president; to say nothing of the railroad men themselves. # INFLATION'S WAY OUT, SAYS HEAD OF FARM FEDERATION

Edward O'Neal Tells Senate Committee That Cessation of Gold Coinage Would Raise Prices.

ENGINEER ALSO

TAKES THE STAND
He Advocates Large Public Works Bond Issue to Stimulate Business and End the Depression.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building, WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The Senate Finance Committee, resuming its search for the road back to prosperity, today heard Edward O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, declare that things are in store for the farmer who have heretofore dodged the depression, unless the Government adopts a policy of inflation. He specifically urged that the gold dollar be reduced in weight, that all gold coins be called in and that no more be coined.

The farm leader predicted that such a policy would result in an immediate rise of 45 per cent in price levels, with a corresponding rise in wages and employment. Representative of Engineers. At the same session, R. E. Flanders, who said he represented an organization of engineers which has been studying the economic causes of the depression for a year, expressed the opinion that the depression had "reached bottom" and was now "moving upward." He declared that one of the main causes of the depression was the fact that too much of the profits of industry went into the pockets of owners and bankers and for the construction of new plants, and not enough into purchasing power in the form of wages.

"Although a manufacturer and a Republican," Flanders said, he could not find valid objection to the domestic allotment plan of farm relief, as applied to wheat and cotton. Declaring that the most critical problem before the country was the burden of credit left from the tremendous credit inflation of 1927-28-29, the witness said much of this debt had been liquidated and some had been assumed by the Government through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The remainder would not be liquidated until business increased. To stimulate business he urged a large public works bond issue, emphasizing that it would enable the country to acquire needed public works at a very low cost.

Attack on Deflationists. O'Neal bitterly assailed those bankers whom he described as "bitter-end deflationists," who, he said, have only three prescriptions for the depression—"restore confidence, balance the budget and let nature take its course."

In the first place, he said, restored confidence must be followed by stabilized prices, not vice versa. In the second place, the budget could not be balanced so long as prices and wages decline and unemployment increases.

As to "letting nature take its course," he warned that "bitter-end deflationists" consider what that would mean. Agriculture and the holders of common stocks already have been "put through the wringer," he said, and future deflation must come at the expense of industry and city real estate. "I am not certain that the eminent spokesmen for deflation understand what that would mean," he went on. "You will have to cut down the pay envelope of every worker. You will have to clip all salaries. You will have to scale down a large part of all private debt; for existing debts absolutely cannot be paid at the low price level. You will have to put up with wholesale defaults of public debt; hundreds of public units are already bankrupt. You will have to reduce taxes drastically, and you may have to reorganize the whole structure of Government. You will have to write down all costs and capitalizations, and while the process is going on it may be hoped that the load of corporate bankruptcies and failures will not drag the business ship completely under."

Predicts Wholesale Crashes. "You will have to endure the shocks of further waves of security declines, of wholesale bank failures, of the crash of great commercial concerns and vanishing private fortunes. You will have to cut freight rates, whether you like it or not, and you will have to live through a chapter of railroad receiverships that might well appeal a bank, university or life insurance president; to say nothing of the railroad men themselves. In short, you will have to scale down the entire structure of wages, charges, capitalizations and costs of every kind until they are in adjustment with the lower price level that prevails. "Moreover, while these economic tumbrels are being turned, you will have to hold down two hot kettles that are already in danger of boiling over. One of these is in the cities. We call it unemployment. If the starvation and misery which seethe within this unemployment program ever get out of hand, inflation will need no further argument. The other thing that is near to boiling over is the mortgage and debt delinquency problem. You will have to keep always one jump ahead of these unemployment and tax delinquency problems while the deflation program is being carried through; for if they ever overtake us, no man can predict the outcome."

Insull Banker on Witness Stand

HAROLD L. STUART, President of the Halsey, Stuart & Co. company, testifying before the Senate Banking Committee in Washington, Friday. Evidence was introduced that Halsey, Stuart & Co. made paper profits of nearly $20,000,000 from participation in the organization of the Insull Investment Trust.

His Proposal on Gold. Declaring that the value of gold has risen 45 per cent in the last three years, O'Neal said: "The problem is to deflate the value of gold, by reducing the weight of gold dollars from 23.22 to 16 grains. This would raise commodity prices 45 per cent—approximately to same level as the average for the period 1921 to 1929."

Moreover, he said, "since the value of gold has always varied because of its fixed price, Congress should create a body which would stabilize the value of gold by varying its price."

"This," he said, "would make gold a medium of exchange, instead of a commodity. If such a course were pursued, he went on, it would at once become necessary for the Government to cease the coinage of gold, reclaim all existing coins at their bullion value, and call all gold in the Treasury in the form of bars."

"There are two great objectives to this proposal," he said. "If the price of gold is raised, who will profit from the advance in price? Obviously the holders of gold will sell it back to the Treasury at the new price. The maximum dollar advance in the value of the gold would be less than $2,000,000,000. The dollar advance in the property of Americans would exceed $100,000,000,000. The gold speculators would be pikers compared with the holders of physical goods. Gold can only raise 45 per cent; property will probably raise more."

Effect on Contracts. "If the price of gold is raised what will be the effect of all contracts carrying the gold clause? The price of all such securities will rise by 45 per cent unless Congress invalidates these contracts; and Congress can and should invalidate them. Why should we guarantee the bondholder a given amount of gold rather than a given number of dollars? No other first-class modern nation is confronted with this ridiculous problem. So long as the given amount of gold and the dollar are synonymous there is no problem. If the dollar is changed there is no justifiable reason for a debtor to sell his product in one kind of money and pay interest in terms of another. "This gold clause is found in Federal, State, municipal, foreign, railroad, utility and industrial bonds. It is not found in land bank bonds or in farm mortgages held by insurance companies; nor is it included in your insurance policy. "It is the policy of our organization that whatever dollar we use to pay wages and to buy and sell the commodities of agriculture and industry is good enough for the creditor; and we recommend the enactment of legislation that will invalidate this so-called gold clause and all contracts carrying it. "The people of the United States," said O'Neal, "should begin manag-

ADMIRAL AZNAR DIES, EX-PREMIER OF SPAIN

Last Head of Cabinet Under Monarchy—Fought at Santiago.

MADRID, Feb. 20.—Funeral services for Admiral Juan Bautista Aznar, the last Premier under the monarchy and the last Captain-General of the Spanish navy, were held today. The Admiral, who was 72 years old, died yesterday from uremia, followed by complications. Burial was in the modest municipal cemetery after the Catholic services.

The abdication of the King followed within a few hours the resignation of the government. Aznar was Lieutenant-Commander of the Spanish Cruiser Vizcaya, which was sunk in July, 1938, with three other Spanish ships in the battle with the United States fleet off Santiago, Cuba. With other captured officers, he was taken as a prisoner of war to the naval hospital at Norfolk, Va. There they were given free run, not only of the hospital but of Portsmouth and Norfolk as well, and were entertained by naval authorities and civilians.

ing the gold standard, and stop being managed by it. We should make our dollar rubber in weight and hard sound hard and fixed in value, instead of a dollar which is fixed in weight, but rubber in value."

Finally, he said his organization had entire confidence in Congress, and takes no stock in the "dictatorship" talk which has been going on.

Wants Cut in Veteran Funds. Sharp reduction in governmental costs, including deep slices into veterans' benefits, was advocated before the committee by Dr. Lewis F. Barker of Baltimore. Dr. Barker, a former vice-president of the American Medical Association, appeared in the committee's survey of economic conditions.

He urged elimination of payments to veterans for injuries or diseases not traceable to service duty. "To continue these special favors to veterans for non-service connected classes is a great injustice," Barker said.

"An injustice of over $400,000,000 a year," observed Chairman Smoot (Rep.), Utah, author of pending bill to give benefits to veterans only for ailments or injuries directly attributable to war duty.

Dr. Barker, who explained to the committee he was for years a Veterans' Bureau diagnostician, asserted that unless expenditures for former soldiers were checked, they would increase steadily, adding that as a result, all the people might demand free Government hospitalization.

WASHINGTON GETS $411,000 CUT IN ELECTRICITY RATE

Reduction by North American Co. Subsidiary Follows Threat to Call for Revaluation.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building, WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The rate of electricity in the District of Columbia enjoyed today a reduction of rates designed to give them direct savings of $411,000 a year on their own bills and indirect savings of about $150,000 through reduction of street lighting charges. Washington is supplied with electric current by the Potomac Electric Power Co., a subsidiary of the North American Co., which also controls the Union Electric Co. in St. Louis.

The reductions were ordered Saturday by the District Public Utilities Commission after it had determined that the company's 1932 earnings were $1,079,000 more than a 7 per cent return on a consent decree valuation of the company's property in 1925. When the company appeared reluctant to negotiate with the commission for a large reduction in rates scheduled for January 1, 1933, the commission threatened to try to dissolve the consent decree and ask for a present-day valuation of the company's property. The reductions ordered Saturday did not change the consent decree valuation.

Prices to Consumer. The maximum charge of 3.9 cents a kilowatt hour remains for the first 50 hours. Thereafter, however, reductions were ordered to taper the charge down for the ordinary domestic users to 2 cents an hour after the first 150 hours. There are about 129,000 consumers in this district. The estimated savings to them will be $99,000. The old rate was 3 cents an hour for all over 100 hours.

The largest cut—$208,000—was ordered for commercial customers in the district. Large industrial users received reductions estimated at $81,000. The minimum rate for this class is now 5 cent an hour in excess of 18.750 hours.

The commission, in a formal statement, said that it had consistently tried to give reductions to the domestic users of electricity. "This is evident," the statement said, "by the fact that in Washington the customer who uses 50 kilowatt hours or less pays less than the average charge for similar use in 15 large cities, including Jacksonville, Fla.; Columbus, Lincoln, Neb., and Los Angeles, where the power is supplied by municipal plants, and by the further fact that the rate in Washington, which pays the minimum bill, 70 cents, can use 19 kilowatt hours, while in 13 large cities with municipal plants, the average charge for 19 kilowatt hours is about 95 cents."

Terms of Consent Decree. Under the consent decree, the power company is directed to give reductions whenever its earnings are in excess of 7 per cent of the court's valuation. Whenever the earnings are more than 7 per cent and not more than 8 1/2 per cent in one year, the following year the charges must be reduced by 50 per cent of the excess of 7 per cent.

When the earnings are between 8 1/2 and 9 per cent there must be an additional reduction equivalent to 60 per cent of this excess, and when the earnings are in excess of 9 per cent, there must be an additional reduction equivalent to 75 per cent of this excess. In 1932 the company's earnings were between 8 1/2 and 9 per cent. Even with the reductions of 1933, the company is expected to earn more than 7 per cent on the court valuation. If the company's earnings fall below 7 per cent of the valuation, the commission is instructed to increase rates to insure at least that return.

MUSSOLINI'S PAPER CHARGES FRANCE IS ARMING ALLIES

Asserts Alleged Action in Balkans Threatens the Peace of Europe.

MILAN, Feb. 20.—The assertion that the peace of Europe is being threatened was made yesterday by Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia, in summing up Fascist newspaper charges that France is arming her Balkan allies against Italy. The Balkan bloc must be considered a "provocation," Il Popolo said, adding that new war clouds were collecting over the continent. La Stampa, of Turin, printed a list of armaments it said were furnished to Jugoslavia and Rumania in the last few years by France and asserted the French controlled armament factories in Czechoslovakia. The Italian press recently attacked France on the ground that an alleged "ultimatum" sent by France and Great Britain to Austria in connection with the reported shipment of arms from Italy to Hungary, via Austria, was "camouflaged" to draw attention away from Italian military preparations. It was denied that arms were shipped for war purposes and newspapers declared that France was arming.

BILL WOULD END PROVIDING OF SERVANTS FOR ADMIRALS

Discontinuance of Furnishing of Silver and Gold Recommended.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Admirals likely will have to buy their own silverware and china and hire their own household servants in the next fiscal year. At present, the navy furnishes silver and china to all men above the rank of Captain, and lets some enlisted men act as butlers, stewards, cooks and other household workers at navy establishments. But the House Appropriations Committee in the naval supply bill presented to the House today recommended a discontinuance of both practices.

Rear Admirals commanding navy yards or naval districts still are allowed 18 silver-plated finger bowls, 36 dessert forks and 48 linen napkins, but in the future if any of these disappear they have to be replaced by the Admiral. The highest ranking naval officer, the chief of naval operations, has a finger bowl allowance of 36 and 210 spoons.

The cost of the articles ranges from $28.18 for the two 3 1/4-quart water ewers the chief of naval operations gets to 12 cents for a water tumbler. All but bear the navy's insignia.

FRENCH WOMAN SUES ESTATE OF BRIAND FOR $6000

PARIS, Feb. 20.—The estate of Aristide Briand, former French Foreign Minister, has been sued by Mme. Jeanne Cornelle Noutau, a lifelong friend of the French statesman, for $6000 or a monthly pension of $60.

Mme. Noutau will contend, according to her attorney, the noted criminal lawyer, Maurice Garcon, that M. Briand's conduct gave her a right to expect a share of the estate, but that everything was left to a niece. M. Garcon said the former Minister suffered heart and sent her $400 two months before he died.

Congress Geared for Quick Action To Carry Out Democratic Policies Without Any Change in Procedure

If House Debate Needs "Gag", This Can Be Applied Whenever Leaders Desire—Caucus Action Already in Use.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—It is being said in some quarters that the plight of the country demands not only a grant of dictatorial powers to the incoming President, but a revision of the rules of Congress to permit speedy enactment of whatever relief measures he may propose. It is said, among other things, that the present rules make for delay and obstruction, and, on the assumption that delay and obstruction are undesirable in this emergency, the suggestion is advanced that the Democratic party resort to tight control of its members through the device of the caucus.

The general line of argument is too well known to require repetition. Whatever may be the validity, or otherwise, of the contention that Congress should surrender or subordinate its right of free discussion, the fact remains that the conclusion often proceeds from unwarranted assumptions. If it is said that the House needs a gag, the answer is that the House under its present rules can be effectively gagged—often is—whenever its leaders so desire.

The Longworth-Tilton-Snell regime will be recalled. Under the leadership of Speaker Garner, the Democratic control is as effective as was the Republican control under the late triumvirate. There has been no relaxation of the rules except in that pertaining to the number of members who may force a vote in the House on the discharge of a committee from the consideration of some measure it has been smoothing. Under the Republicans, a majority was required for this purpose. The Democrats reduced the requirement to 145.

Power of Rules Committee. The key to control of the House lies in the control of the Rules Committee. The party that dominates the House has the chairmanship of this committee (as of all committees) and the leaders take special care to see that it is top-heavy with majority members. For instance, though the Democrats have but a scant majority in the present Congress, they have eight members of the Rules Committee as against four Republicans, or two-thirds of the committee.

There is no chance that the Democrats will be outvoted. On no other important committee of the House is there such a preponderance of majority members. For this reason the Rules Committee is so important? For the simple reason that the House transacts much of its business under special rules brought in by this committee. A rule can be drawn to suit any occasion. If the leaders desire that a bill shall be passed without amendment, or with limited debate, or without an opportunity for a motion to reconsider, the Rules Committee brings in a rule to fit the specifications. A majority vote is sufficient for adoption of the rule, and after it has been adopted, it governs the procedure on the measure to which it applies.

The passage of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill by the Republicans under a gag rule, without the opportunity of the Democrats to offer amendments, is a good illustration of the way in which legislation can be railroaded to passage by the party in power. An even more striking use of the special rule was made by the Democrats in this session, when, on the opening day, the Gar-

SENATE COUNSEL WOULD GO ON WITH LOUISIANA INQUIRY

Brig.-Gen. Ansell Issues Statement on Overton Investigation Without Authority From Committee.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Brigadier-General Samuel T. Ansell, counsel for the Senate committee investigating the 1932 Democratic primary in Louisiana, yesterday urged continuation of the inquiry. Members of the committee disclaimed any responsibility for the statement.

Gen. Ansell, in a formal statement to the press after his return from New Orleans, where the committee has been holding hearings for two weeks, insisted the investigation be continued. Ansell made it clear in giving out the statement he was acting on his own responsibility. Senators Howell (Rep.), Nebraska, and Carey (Rep.), Wyoming, who conducted the hearings, promptly got together when they heard of Ansell's statement and over their signatures had this to say: "The subcommittee (which they composed) will report at an early date to the full committee, which will subsequently report to the Senate."

"Other than this, the committee has not or will not authorize any report or statement."

The inquiry, conducted by a subcommittee of the special Committee on Campaign Expenditures, revolved around the defeat in the Democratic party of Senator Edwin S. Broussard by Representative John H. Overton, the latter backed by Senator Huey P. Long. Charge and counter-charge flew thick and fast in New Orleans at the hearing, with Long, acting as counsel for Overton, clashing repeatedly with Ansell. Ansell, formerly Acting Judge Advocate-General of the Army and now engaged in private law practice here, said in his statement which sharply assailed Long and Overton: "If this investigation is to be thoroughly done it is not yet half finished. If any Senate investigation ever needed to be pushed aggressively to the end this is such an investigation."

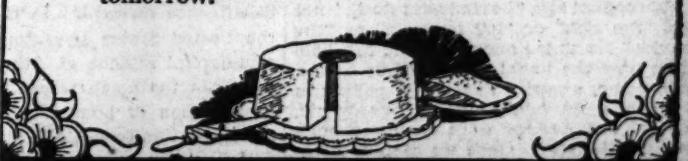

He has concluded his work as committee counsel under the agreement in which he was retained, he explained, when newspaper men asked him if it were not unusual for a committee employ to issue such a statement. "That is the way I feel about the matter," he said.

He added he had been retained for 30 days and that period was up. Howell told newspaper men there was no disagreement between the counsel and members.

Whether the inquiry should be continued will be put up to the full committee by the subcommittee. Howell has expressed himself publicly as favoring continuation and will press this week for consideration of a request for $25,000 with which to go ahead.

ROLE

THE VINEGAR TREE

A GAY FARCE-COMEDY

Casey Players, With Leona Powers, Seen in Play New to St. Louis.

VINEGAR TREE, a comedy in three acts by Paul Osborn, presented by Arthur Casey at the Shubert Theater with the following cast:

Lawrence Keating ..... Sam Flint
Leona Powers ..... Ella Ethridge
Frank McDonald ..... Frank McDonald
Fred Sherman ..... Fred Sherman
Shubert Theater ..... Shubert Theater

AFTER several vain attempts to reach St. Louis—Mary Boland and then Billie Burke almost brought it here, and Mary Hart once attempted to do it at the Orpheum—the Vinegar Tree, a most enjoyable, at times, somewhat bawdy farce-comedy, arrived last night by the Casey Company at the Shubert Theater. With the attractive and capable Leona Powers, brought on by Mr. Casey as a visiting star, the little play proved to be one of the very funniest of modern entertainments and the Sunday night audience was kept in roars of laughter a good part of the time.

The title of the play comes from the analogy drawn between the fact that a vinegar tree is a sort of water-soaked plant which upsets the balance of nearby flora and the leading character in the comedy, a slightly woman just passing the dangerous age of 40 and married to a lusty husband many years her senior. Hungry for a more or less amusing way, for romance, she hires a famous artist to her country home for a week's visit, believing him to be the young man who, years before, she had loved and married. It later develops that he was the man of her dreams at all, but he serves the purpose and creates something of a panic in the household. He is, it seems, the more or less unwilling lover of the sister of his hostess. The play has an impressive young daughter who, in turn, has a stupid sweetheart. The visiting Romeo and the daughter become involved in an affair and things get pretty tangled up before they are finally righted in the end. It is all very bright and funny while it is being acted and although the dialogue is broad at times it is not offensive at least not to audiences of this age.

Miss Powers is, of course, the romance hunting wife and mother and she is given most excellent support. Leah Trent does her best, and the season as the daughter of Fred Sherman, a young man who has been assigned old man roles in most of the earlier Casey ventures, turns out to be a surprisingly good comedian in the part of the blundering sweetheart. Lawrence Keating is, as might be expected, delightful as the invited guest and Sam Flint and Ella Ethridge turn in fine performances as the husband and the man-hunter sister.

"The Vinegar Tree" is light and gay and sophisticated—and provides a thoroughly enjoyable evening at the theater.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

A candle-lit wedding at 4 o'clock this afternoon, Miss Mary Eleanor Trask, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bigelow Trask, 4915 West Pine boulevard, will become the bride of James Wideman Lee Hoxie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Hoxie, 4542 McPherson avenue. The Rev. Dr. Theodore S. Symple of the Central Presbyterian Church will perform the ceremony at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Charles Harris, 303 Allen place, Ferguson, in the presence of the two families and a few close friends.

The wedding party will descend the stairway and pass through an aisle of white ribbons to an improvised altar arranged before the fireplace, and clusters of calla lilies are interspersed among the greenery. Tall candelabra filled with lighted tapers have been placed at each side, and tapers about the room will give further illumination.

The bride will be given in marriage by her father. She will wear a gown of white satin, trimmed with rose point lace from the wide bands of the lace around the long close fitting sleeves, and more of the lace has been used for a deep yoke. The bodice is fitted at the waist and depends in princess lines to the floor where it widens into a round train sewn with orange blossoms. The bride veil is of tulle, and will be caught to her hair by a close tulle cap fastened with orange blossoms and worn with a face veil. The bride will carry roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Mary Colt Day, as maid of honor, will wear a high necked gown, lined in front and a deep V at the back. Instead of sleeves, ruffles of organdie have been used over the upper arms. She will wear a brown velvet sash and slippers, and a brown organdie hat, self trimmed, and worn at an angle. Her flowers will be yellow roses and freesia.

The flower girls, Margaret Louise and Mary Diane Harris, young nieces of the bride, will wear dainty imported frocks of pale peach silk, hand made, and will carry baskets of spring flowers.

Mrs. Trask will wear an informal green crepe afternoon gown with ivory satin trimming, and Mrs. Harris will be in gray crepe.

Robert Lee Hoxie will be his brother's best man, and Walter Bigelow Trask Jr., Jackson F. Adams, Marion Smith and Lorraine Eckert will hold the ribbon aisle.

An informal reception will follow the ceremony. An all white table decoration has been used in the dining room, with white roses and freesia combined as a table centerpiece.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoxie Sr., after a brief honeymoon, will occupy an apartment which is being arranged for them at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hoxie Sr., after a brief honeymoon.

Miss Cornelia Materne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Materne, 3009 Geyer avenue, is spending several weeks in Mexico City with her aunt, Mrs. Henry Pope of Chicago. They will visit in San Antonio, Tex., en route home.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Spaeth of Fair Oaks and their two children are spending the late winter and early spring season in Havana. They are expected home in April.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Riesmeyer Jr., 6444 Cecil avenue, have gone to Bermuda for a honeymoon trip and will be away two or three weeks. Their marriage took place recently in Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. Valle Reyburn, 368 Walton avenue, have gone to Palm Beach, Fla., to join their young daughter, Frances, who is with her grandmother, Mrs. Charles Fletcher Sparks, at her winter home. Mr. and Mrs. Sparks opened their home late in December.

Among the St. Louisans spending the late winter in Florida is Mrs. Adalbert von Gontard of Huntleigh Village, who is being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Sharp Ezzell, 48 Portland place, at their cottage at the Surf Club in Miami Beach.

ALL THE BARRYMORES

TOGETHER IN A FILM

Lionel, Ethel and John Stars of "Rasputin" at the American Theater.

By NIE.

DESPITE the fact that "Rasputin" and the Empress, the motion picture which came to the American Theater for a two-day week's visit as a "road show" yesterday, is a pretty spectacle and a sort of semi-official celluloid document of the last days of the Romanoffs its greatest appeal to cinema goers will likely be found in the fact that it brings together, for the first time on stage or screen, the royal family of Barrymores—Lionel, Ethel and John.

Lionel is the Rasputin of the film while sister Ethel is the Empress and brother John a cousin Prince Chogodoff who is revealed as the slayer of the Mad Monk, the slayer, by the way, in a melodramatic hand-to-hand encounter. Also it is shown, by the way, that Rasputin was addicted to wine, women and rags and that his fall, just at the moment when he was about to declare himself Czar of all the Russias, was brought about largely by his fighting the Primrose Path in combination with his unfortunate set to with Prince John.

That, perhaps, is not history but since so little is really known of the ending of the Romanoffs and the part Rasputin played in the great tragedy the picture plot is readily believable. Too, it makes for good theater, what, after all, is the purpose of the offering. Rasputin is exposed then, as a wholly bad man, a hypnotist specializing in women for his subjects and a madman who craftily keeps himself under restraint most of the time. And, before going further into the story of the play it may be said that Lionel Barrymore, as indeed he always does in pictures, gives a magnificent performance in the stellar role and John is excellent as the best, if for a time shelved, friend of the Court. Except for a few dramatic moments Miss Barrymore has little to do in the film beyond looking the part of an Empress. That task she completes perfectly. Diana Wynward—the same Diana Wynward who is the star performer in "Cavalcade"—has more of a part to play in the role of a Lady in Waiting who is one of the first to come under the influence of Rasputin and who brought him to the attention of the Court. Miss Wynward again scores heavily.

The story begins with the Romanoffs as a rather simple Russian family anxious to make the Russian people happy, but not knowing exactly how to go about it. Into their circle comes the Mad Monk to cure the little heir to the throne of a dread disease which has baffled the best physicians of Europe. Accomplishing the impossible, he wins his way into the heart of the Czar and gradually becomes the most important man in the empire. It is here, again according to the picture—where drives the Czar into the war against Germany, presents the reforms for the people but in effect, and finally brings the whole Royal Family—the Romanoffs, not the Barrymores—to its doom. The story ends with the murder of the ruler and his children in the manner set down in history after Rasputin has met his own death at the hands of Prince Chogodoff. And, before the final calamity, there is a hint that the reigning Prince and the Princess in Waiting, Natasha, have escaped to England. There to be married and live happily forever afterwards.

Ralph Morley, more or less of a newcomer to the screen, is excellent as the Czar, looking for all the world like the familiar pictures of that unfortunate ruler and little Tad Alexander does well, also, as the Czar's son who was too young to know what it was all about.

The picture is finely made on a grand scale, and is full of the pageantry of the Russian Court of the day before the revolution. It is distinctly worth while and worth seeing.

J. HUTTON HYND HEADS

ETHICAL SOCIETY HERE

Englishman Succeeds Percival Chubb Who Becomes Leader Emeritus.

J. Hutton Hynd, lately of London, was elected yesterday as leader of the St. Louis Ethical Society.

The appointment will become effective next October, and Percival Chubb, leader of the society since 1911, will become leader emeritus. Hynd was with the society last fall as visiting leader, and it was the understanding that he would succeed Chubb, who resigned the active leadership before leaving for a year of European travel.

Hynd served for four years as assistant to Dr. Stanton Coit, leader of the Ethical Church of London. He is 35 years old and married. He is at present in New York.

Chubb, who is 72 years old and a native of England, announced last summer in connection with his retirement, that he would return to St. Louis after his year of travel. "To tidy house for my successor, and put my legacy in order," he wrote last fall, while he was in London. He was, however, convinced of the advisability of his retirement, he regretted that it must come at the present crisis in national and human affairs.

Under his leadership, the Ethical Society built and occupied its present home, Sheldon Memorial, 3648 Washington boulevard. The building was named for the founder of the St. Louis society, Walter L. Sheldon, who died in 1910. He was married to Chubb in 1910. She died in 1924.

SPONSORS RALLY TO DEFEND STATE HIGHWAY PATROL

Auto Club, Highway and Civic Organizations
Against Bill to Abolish Missouri Troopers.

By a Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 20.—
The Henry bill proposing abolition of the State highway patrol, which has been approved by the Senate
Road and Highway Committee, likely will encounter considerable opposition in the Senate and House, if the bill is pressed by its advocates.

The bill will be opposed by the Automobile Club of Missouri, which sponsored passage of the act creating the patrol, by the 1931 Legislature and by other highway and civic organizations which backed the patrol bill. The act was passed over the bitter opposition of a small group of lawyers and rural members in the two houses of the Legislature.

Senator Carl J. Henry of Butler, who introduced the repeal bill, has stated he was opposed to an organ-

Insidious hold-ups are on the increase. The common pneumonia and other such health bandits will be busy all Winter singling out easy vic-

There is only one way to avoid them. Keep physically fit. Keep your feet dry, wear warm clothing, avoid chilling draughts and, so far as possible, crowds.

ization such as the highway patrol, with only limited police powers. He said he would favor a State constabulary, with general police powers, but realized the difficulty of passing a State police or constabulary bill. Henry questioned the value of the patrol, declaring he never had seen a highway patrolman on United States Highway No.
71, on occasional trips between his home in Butler and Kansas City.

Henry said abolishing of the patrol would save money for the State. Expenses of the patrol are paid from State highway funds, derived from gasoline taxes and automobile license fees. None of the expense is paid from the State general revenue fund.

The patrol, which began operations on Nov. 24, 1931, is small, due to limited appropriations, but has made a record in the 13 months of the biennial period of 1931 and 1932 that is considered very satisfactory by sponsors of the patrol legislation.

The 1931 act authorized a force of 115 patrolmen and 10 captains, but the funds appropriated have permitted a force of only 66 patrolmen and six captains, under Supt. Lewis Ellis of Bethany, who was appointed by Gov. Caulfield. Operation is under control of the State Highway Commission.

In the 13 months ending last Dec.
31, the patrol made 3968 arrests, of which 1604 were for violations of highway and traffic laws, 1895 for violation of motor vehicle registration laws, and 369 for crimes and misdemeanors. In these cases there were 2682 convictions, eight defendants were acquitted, 298 persons arrested were turned over to other authorities, 273 are awaiting trial, and 607 cases were dismissed by prosecuting officers or by the arresting officer. Most of the 607 cases dismissed involved automobile license law violations, and were dropped after compliance with the law by the offenders.

SHOOTS MAN WHO TRIES TO FORCE WAY INTO HOME

Engineer Wounds Chau-feur During Disturbance at 3167 South Jefferson Avenue.

Melvin Hays, 20-year-old truck chauffeur, is in a critical condition at City Hospital, having been shot in the abdomen yesterday afternoon when he persisted in making a disturbance at 3167 South Jefferson avenue. He had been drinking.

He was shot by Edward A. Mik-seck, 55, a mechanical engineer, who resides at 3167A South Jefferson avenue. Before Mikseck finally fired, Hays had tried to enter both flats, upstairs and down, pretending he had a pistol in his pocket, and finally had struck Mik-seck in the face with his fist.

Mikseck told policemen he was in his kitchen, working at a table on some engineering figures, when he heard someone trying to open his front door. As he went downstairs, thinking it was his wife returning home, he heard the caller trying the door of the downstairs family, which is in Florida.

Mikseck said that when he opened the door he was confronted by Hays, who thrust his hand into his pocket, then pointed at him in such a manner that Mikseck thought he was being covered by a pistol.

"He said, 'Stick 'em up,'" Mik-seck said. "I slammed the door and went back upstairs. I heard him try the downstairs door again and then he left. A few moments later I heard the crash of a window breaking on the north side of the building.

"I opened a window and leaned out. Hays was standing below
me. I asked him what he wanted.
He put this hand in his pocket again and said, 'I'll get you.' A moment later he smashed a window in the back of the place so I got my revolver and went downstairs.

"He was on an inclosed back porch from which a window had been broken. He ran to the back yard and I followed him. He stopped and began cursing, with his hand in his pocket again, and finally I told him to put up his hands. With that he jumped the fence into the next yard.

"I thought he had gone, but as I turned away he came back and hit me three times with his fist from the side. He smashed my glasses. As I turned I fired twice.

Policemen who responded to Mikseck's call found Hays had been shot in the abdomen and that another bullet had grazed his chest.
Neighbors who had witnessed the disturbance corroborated Mikseck's story in every detail and he was not arrested.

WHEAT CLOSING UNSETTLED ON THE CHICAGO MARKET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Influenced noticeably by the prohibition repeal vote in Washington, wheat and corn made fractional price gains today, but reacted under profit-taking.

A decrease of 2,221,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply put the total at 147,333,000, against 202,990,000 a year ago.

Wheat closing unsettled at the same as Saturday's finish to 1/4 cent lower, 2 1/2 to 3/4 cent higher, and a shade to 1 cent up, and provisions varying from 7 cents up to 5 cents advance.

Despite weakness of securities, grain values tended upward today.

Domestic winter wheat crop comment continued bullish. Starting unsteady to 1/4 cent higher, wheat reacted a little and then soon rose for a second time.

Wheat closed at 47 1/2, unchanged and July wheat 45 1/2, down 1/4.

Provisions reflected firmness of hog values.

"Oh!" she dropped her teasing pose and looked at him with respect. "I think you are terribly brave, then, to face a thing like that, with nothing but a walking stick!"

"Not at all," Paul disclaimed, quickly. "It might not have been bandits. In fact, it wasn't."

Suddenly the girl smiled again, but a different sort of smile, a friendly smile, an altogether lovely smile. It said, "You are all right. I like you and the whole gang were playing a little game to Paul's heart and mind to it a

Some mistakes were made. "I'm a bit confused, hesitant," this isn't a bad thing. "What I expected to find. I-I'd better run along."

"Don't go!" Paul's disappointment was heartfelt. "What DID you expect to find? Tell me—maybe we have it after all. I'm not sure. I did mean that!" the girl laughed again. "I just meant—I'm not sure. I just meant that this isn't where I expected to come. I haven't any business here, you see."

"Then we're even!" Paul exclaimed triumphantly. "I haven't any business here either. And if

The girl detected an undercurrent of seriousness in Paul's fooling, and answered him seriously. "I don't know very much about business, but I do know that unimportant people don't have offices like this. If you're not im-

"Oh no, really. That's all. Come and see, will you? It's a great view. So everyone can see."

Plainly puzzled and a little annoyed, the girl moved rather stiffly to comply. Paul flung to its widest extent, and she turned to look and looked upon the panorama. At that moment she forgot her uneasiness, suspicion, and gave a shout of awe and delight.

The city lay as far as the eye could see, a mosaic of

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:
Reading your column of this evening, I became interested in the letter signed "Neil," and want to know what I did in similar circumstances.

My husband, being very gentle, sweet and kind with the ladies, was misunderstood by a younger married woman with two children—my neighbor. On Sunday morning, when I took my children to Sunday school and church (I could not get him to join us), my neighbor would entertain my husband, her husband also being away at church. On holidays the lady would watch for him and stand and talk, but as soon as I appeared, would go into the house. My husband reported the conversations, but I had my doubts and he would tease me all the more by talking to her.

I then purposely invited several couples, my neighbor included, to a dinner dance. At dinner my husband called one of the other lady guests "Sweetie." And that cured the neighbor—she had thought he was in love with her.

We happened to be on the same telephone line, and when I went out, if he happened to call, she would answer, calling him endearing names (which he told me about).

Her next experience was not so easy for her; she went too far and it almost cost her her home. Now she is broken down in health and a wreck through her own foolishness.

Best of luck to "Neil" and she must continue to your column.

A FAITHFUL READER.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I SHOULD like to get in touch with "Helen L." the girl in the county who said she was active in all kinds of sports and would like to meet some girls. Please send me her address, MARJORIE.

I have a number of letters for "Helen L." which I shall be glad to send her, for her approval, if she will let me know where to send them.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
AM 17 years old and I want you to help me. I raise canary birds and work on Saturdays. But you see what the problem is. I am not liked at home. My mother and father and brothers always abuse me, calling me all kinds of names. I can't stand it any longer, so please, Mrs. Carr, I would like to know if someone would take me in their home and give me a warm room and let me work for it as I could not afford to pay board.

Maybe there's a lonesome family who would take me in. So please try to help me. Please do not print my name.

AN OUTCAST.

I hope you will not leave home unless you are obliged to. Try to remember that you are at a trying age; trying to you, and sometimes to other people, who fail to remember that you are no longer a little boy, but expect you, too, to take the place of a grown, matured man.

I imagine your family would be very much surprised to learn that you had taken their harshness so much to heart, and it is not a very fine commentary upon their manners or behavior (for the so-called training they think they are giving you) to know that it is simply making you want to leave home, instead of helping you. Try not to be too sensitive or resentful, though. Sometimes people with the best intentions are awkward and rude in the way they express them.

I do not happen to know of a place just now, but if I hear of one I will let you know. And then must give the family a hint about how you feel about it.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
ESTERDAY evening as I walked through my backyard, I found a robin redbreast lying on the ground dead. I picked it up and noticed it had a label on its leg which read, "Notify Biol. Survey B-302,087."

Could you advise me as where I could get in touch with this number.

Please publish this as soon as possible.

M. H.

Detach this label and mail it, with note saying where, and on what date, it was found, to Paul G. Reddington, Chief of Biological Survey Bureau, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
AM a girl 17 years old, having lost my mother who was sick several years. It took all of father's savings to pay her doctor and hospital bills. There are no places in this little town where I might apply for help and so I am asking you. I walk two miles to school and I find that my clothes are awful thin when it is cold. I wonder if in some way you could send at least $20 for me. I hope somebody will offer you one. I will pay the postage. MILDRED.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for a personal reply.

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND BRIDGE

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

1. DO HUMAN BEINGS ARRIVE IN THE WORLD WITH AN INBORN SENSE OF RIGHT AND WRONG? WRITE YES OR NO HERE

2. DOES LOVE OCCUPY AS LARGE A PLACE IN A WOMAN'S LIFE TODAY AS FORMERLY? WRITE YES OR NO HERE

3. IS IT BETTER FOR A YOUNG MAN TO WORK AND THROUROUGH COLLEGE THAN TO GO ON BORROWED MONEY? WRITE YES OR NO HERE

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1.—No. They learn right and wrong by experience and training. Hartsorne and May, Yale psychologists, have shown we do not even develop a general sense of right and wrong, but merely large numbers of special habits of acting this way or that when we are up against particular problems. Thus a man does not have one general honesty, but a large number of honesties, one for each of the scores. Character building consists in developing large groups of these habits and uniting them into ideals of good character.

2.—No. As long as the world is round, women will love as deeply, truly, as ever; but today they love more wisely, because they have other interests than just holding hands with John or walking with him by the river's brim. Grandmother had little out of this except milking cows, tending children, cooking for the men folk, darned socks and knitting through the long winter evenings. Her best behaved granddaughters have a hundred new, wholesome amusements and interests, and much wider friendships with both men and women. Love doesn't take as much time as it used to, but it's the same old love.

3.—Yes, if he can. It is a heavy burden for a young college man to start out to repay a loan. Loan scholarships, college deans have found, are not an unmixed blessing. Better for a man or woman who is really capable to borrow than to go to all, but the more pay-as-you-go the better.

This BEAUTY EXPERT Says:

By THE REV. JOSEPH FORT NEWTON

Doris D. writes:
I READ your recent article on brow grooming with much interest and must say that now I feel that I can keep my eyebrows in trim myself—easily. Thanks for the good advice. Now will you also tell us how to keep the brows silky between pluckings. And another thing. In my mind I cannot divorce brows from lashes and long, silky, abundant lashes seem to be one of the secret wishes of womankind (and often it's not so secret, judging by the too long to be true type one sees now-a-days). Which prompts me to put another question to you: how do you feel about artificial lashes, any way—are they in or out, so far as fashion is concerned or just a fad or what?"

A great many women are asking "or what?" with reference to the artificial lashes. Long and sweeping they are, luxurious, intriguing. One sees them here and there and feels that the fad has taken hold more than beauty authorities predicted. For evening wear, particularly when you wish to look Yvonne, even at the risk of appearing frankly artificial, the adjustable lashes may be used. For ordinary wear, however, there's more romance and peace of mind in one's own.

Shine on the nose is all out of place, but gloss on brows and lashes is grand. And it's a little prosaic word that you've heard often that puts the silky loveliness where it should be. Brushing. Brows and lashes need it, just as the hair on the head does. That's the best way to keep the brows and lashes groomed, Doris.

The brows should be brushed at least as many times a day as the face is powdered. Brush straight up first to get any powder grains out. Then brush in the right direction, pinching the brows into shape. Brush the upper lashes up in a circular direction, the lower down and ditto. There'll be a little curling there presently and permanently.

Add a bit of vaseline or pure olive oil to the brush. Good for silken sheen and more luxuriant growth. One per cent yellow oxide of mercury is excellent. And there are various good eyelash growers and darkeners on the market. It may take a year's brushing to lengthen a bit. But what of it? Isn't the persistence worth while? Besides, it will make your face look and feel more "finished" if you get the habit. More about Eye Beauty in my

Fashion Hints Gleaned From Our Own St. Louis Shops

By SYLVIA

It really is a shame to call those adorable beige and gray evening gowns neutral merely because of their colors. They couldn't stay neutral long once a snappy dresser got one on and started out for an eventful evening. Dove gray ace of the pique d'ange type, heavy enough to have a will of its own, is quite lovely, especially in a season getting grayer every day. And another of beige lace, its design outlined in brown and a brown taffeta sash around its middle, would be a positive success whether worn with or without its cape.

Anyone would think this a seaport town from all the nautical findings to aid a costume in looking different. We've had anchor pins and necklaces and life buoy clips within the last few weeks, but now another gadget comes sailing in—the pilot wheel bracelet. Its wood is brown enough to have weathered many a storm, and its gold knobs have a polished air about them.

A clever girl who likes the unusual but hasn't much cash should get a certain blouse for her tailored suit. Striped pique is the fabric, and the colors she can name herself. The yoke and short, tailored sleeves go together crosswise of the fabric. A close-fitting collar contributes a neat sort of bow. This blouse is to be worn with the tail tucked in, thereby accentuating a mannish aspect.

Drop prism ornaments that catch all the glamour of a festive ball are the irresistible features of glass colonial candlesticks seen in St. Louis stores. They aren't really crystal (not for such a small dab of money) but they are very good pretenders. Besides the single candlestick type, there are some of the two-branched style suggesting candleabra. Footed bowls in a graceful urn shape can be purchased to complete an ensemble.

Here's a quaint little pilot to see you to bed. Forward-looking summer cottagers please take note. It goes by the name of the "pilot candle" but it is much wiser than the pilgrims were with its tiny bulb resembling a Christmas tree light and its flashlight battery concealed inside the candlestick. The base is made of copper and brass, shaped into a pretty bowl with a convenient and graceful handle.

Another item for the table will delight hostesses who want to have their appointments different from those of their neighbors. This is a place card holder made of real Venetian glass—stamped and swan to. One style also serves as an individual ash tray. The base supplies the place for ashes and the center standard with a leaf design holds the card. Green glass combined with topaz shell with glints of gold would be hard to beat.

Classy, you'll admit, is the appearance of embroidered organdie as sleeves on a navy cape dress. The cape is one of those adjustable sorts which can be worn draped around the shoulders for vampish moods, or thrown back with a flourish and completely forgotten while the white and elegant sleeves get all of the admiration.

Husbands Have a Hard Time

US HUSBANDS are having a hard time. You don't believe it? You should read my mail. Particularly if you're a wife you should read those letters, for you're the way whereof of them, lady.

"Cry baby letters!"

Not a bit of it! Unpleasant, fluted communications from fellows who are trying to wear through—and having the heck of it.

It's all about this job situation. Working wives and idle husbands. Men depending on women for the daily bread—and choking over the bread. And the wives exasperated to the point where they hardly care whether they choke or not!

"Wives should not hold jobs!"

Maybe they shouldn't, or maybe they should. No space to argue that here. The point is, millions of wives ARE holding jobs, and millions of husbands AREN'T—and the cause is a terribly new kind of domestic war.

Even if you could take all the women out of jobs and put all the men back into them, it wouldn't solve this new dilemma. For the women, stepped into industries something happened to husbands which had never happened before in the history of the race.

THEIR BRUG SENSE OF SUPERIORITY WAS KNOWN INTO A COCKED HAT—AND THEIR HUSBANDS CAN'T TAKE IT.

That's not surprising. Since the immemorial women have been considered the weaker sex and the men the stronger, it was unthinkable that he should be anything but the stronger. Wasn't he the stronger sex?

Didn't he know more about the world? How could the woman possibly manage with his guidance? She couldn't—that was that.

But now, suddenly, she is managing! She is managing very well. She is proving that she's as able to be the head of the household as any husband. And her husband, Lord and master, watches her performance with bitter bewilderment and angry humiliation—then he needs to go into a tantrum.

Whereupon the wife gets on top. She doesn't mean to be on top about her new found power, at the start. She fully intends to be loyal and loving partner.

"What difference does it make, dear, which one of us works? You've always carried the load. Why shouldn't I help now?"

cries. And both she and her husband honestly believe that it makes no difference.

But presently the man of the house begins to realize that the making the whale of a difference. The Dear Little Woman no longer leans on him; no longer asks for his advice or permission. In short, she treats him exactly as husbands have always treated wives. But he doesn't remember that. He knows that the wife is helping him. So he tries to regain his standing by bullying, heckling, criticizing. If that won't work, he proceeds to wallow in self-pity and sentiment. When this, too, fails, he resorts to the last expedient—expedient which has served many peevish wives for so many rebellious centuries—HE GETS SICK; develops indigestion, nervous headaches, rheumatism, ADVERTISING TO HAVE HIS PAIN. And, in the meanwhile, the hard working wife, also, becomes sick for herself. Her attitude changes from love to pity, from pity to contempt, from contempt to downright anger and dislike. So the Big Big Up comes!

Millions of American homes are jam like that. What's the cure? We can't turn back the hands of time. Never again will women be the role of the clinging vine, but we can learn that she can be the sturdy oak.

So then, what? Will husbands have to change their attitude toward marriage? If so, how? Will society invent, as it so often has done before, a new form of marriage? If so, what?

SECOND CHOICE ACCESSORIES

By ROB EDEN

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO.

THE mass of var-colored balloons which formed the ceiling of the Pyramid Night Club was misty, hazy from cigarette smoke. The glass floor was filled with swaying, dancing bodies. Through the noise and confusion the music filtered faintly, a saxophone throbbing out a tune, the violin taking it up, a drum beating, beating.

"Great, isn't it?" Toby Locke tightened his arm around Judith.

"I feel like a new person."

The lights dimming, and a spot playing on the balloon ceiling, warming a red glow through the cigarette smoke, touching the glittering dress of a dancer and making it gleam like diamonds, dropping to the floor, and winding over the shadows that were almost one. Once it fell on Judith's dress, and when she saw the crimson glow of it against her breast, she shuddered in Toby's arms.

She felt better when the music stopped and they were sitting at their table again. She was in no mood for dancing tonight. The club with its lavish furnishings, even Toby's exuberance, failed to excite her.

A man danced alone on the floor, the metal on his shoes making a clippity-clappity sound as it struck the glass. Toby laughing, applauding when the dancer finished to make way for another number.

Girls this time, 10 of them, in brief, white, off-the-shoulder costumes with sheer black hose.

Toby leaned over to her, "Judith, you don't know how happy I am tonight. I'm starting a new life!"

Judith looked around as she had done ever since they had come into the cabaret, dreading that she would see someone she knew. A girl in the corner—her face was familiar—but she couldn't place her. That was one.

If Toby would only take her home—but he wouldn't. She could see that he was here for the evening. He had no thought of going home.

Again and again they danced. Each time her feet felt like lead, and the haunting music failed to stir her.

Toby waved to a newcomer, and Judith's heart sank.

"Someone you know?"

"A depositor."

She was conscious that the man's eyes were on her, appraising her. Conscious that he was whispering to his companion, a woman. She felt the glance the woman gave her, but could not see it because she had forced her head away.

"Let's go home, Toby."

"Don't be silly, Dear. We're having a grand time."

He was, not she. . . . His shoulders swaying to the music, his finger tapping the white cloth of the table.

"I feel as if there were a ten-ton weight off my shoulders—even if the judge did give Donna $75 a month alimony. How will it feel to pay alimony, Judith?"

Funny, wouldn't it? That's a pretty big slice, too, don't you know yet how we're going to manage it, but we'll let that take care of itself. Swell dress you have on."

He didn't remember it, of course. He had eyes only for Donna when she had worn it to his wedding.

"Now, isn't it?"

"No, not new."

"Say, Judith, I've been thinking. If I could borrow some money, say a thousand dollars, I'll be able to clear off all my debts at once. It would establish my credit again, and I'd feel much better. Then I could pay the thousand back in easy payments, with interest, you know. What do you think?"

"Any thing you say, Toby," lackadaisically.

"I think it's a pretty good scheme."

"Will you borrow it from the bank?"

"Lord, no, I thought of—well, as a matter of fact, I sort of thought of Dr. Mitchell. He lent you a thousand dollars before. Do you think he'd lend you another thousand? On my note this time."

"Dr. Mitchell?"

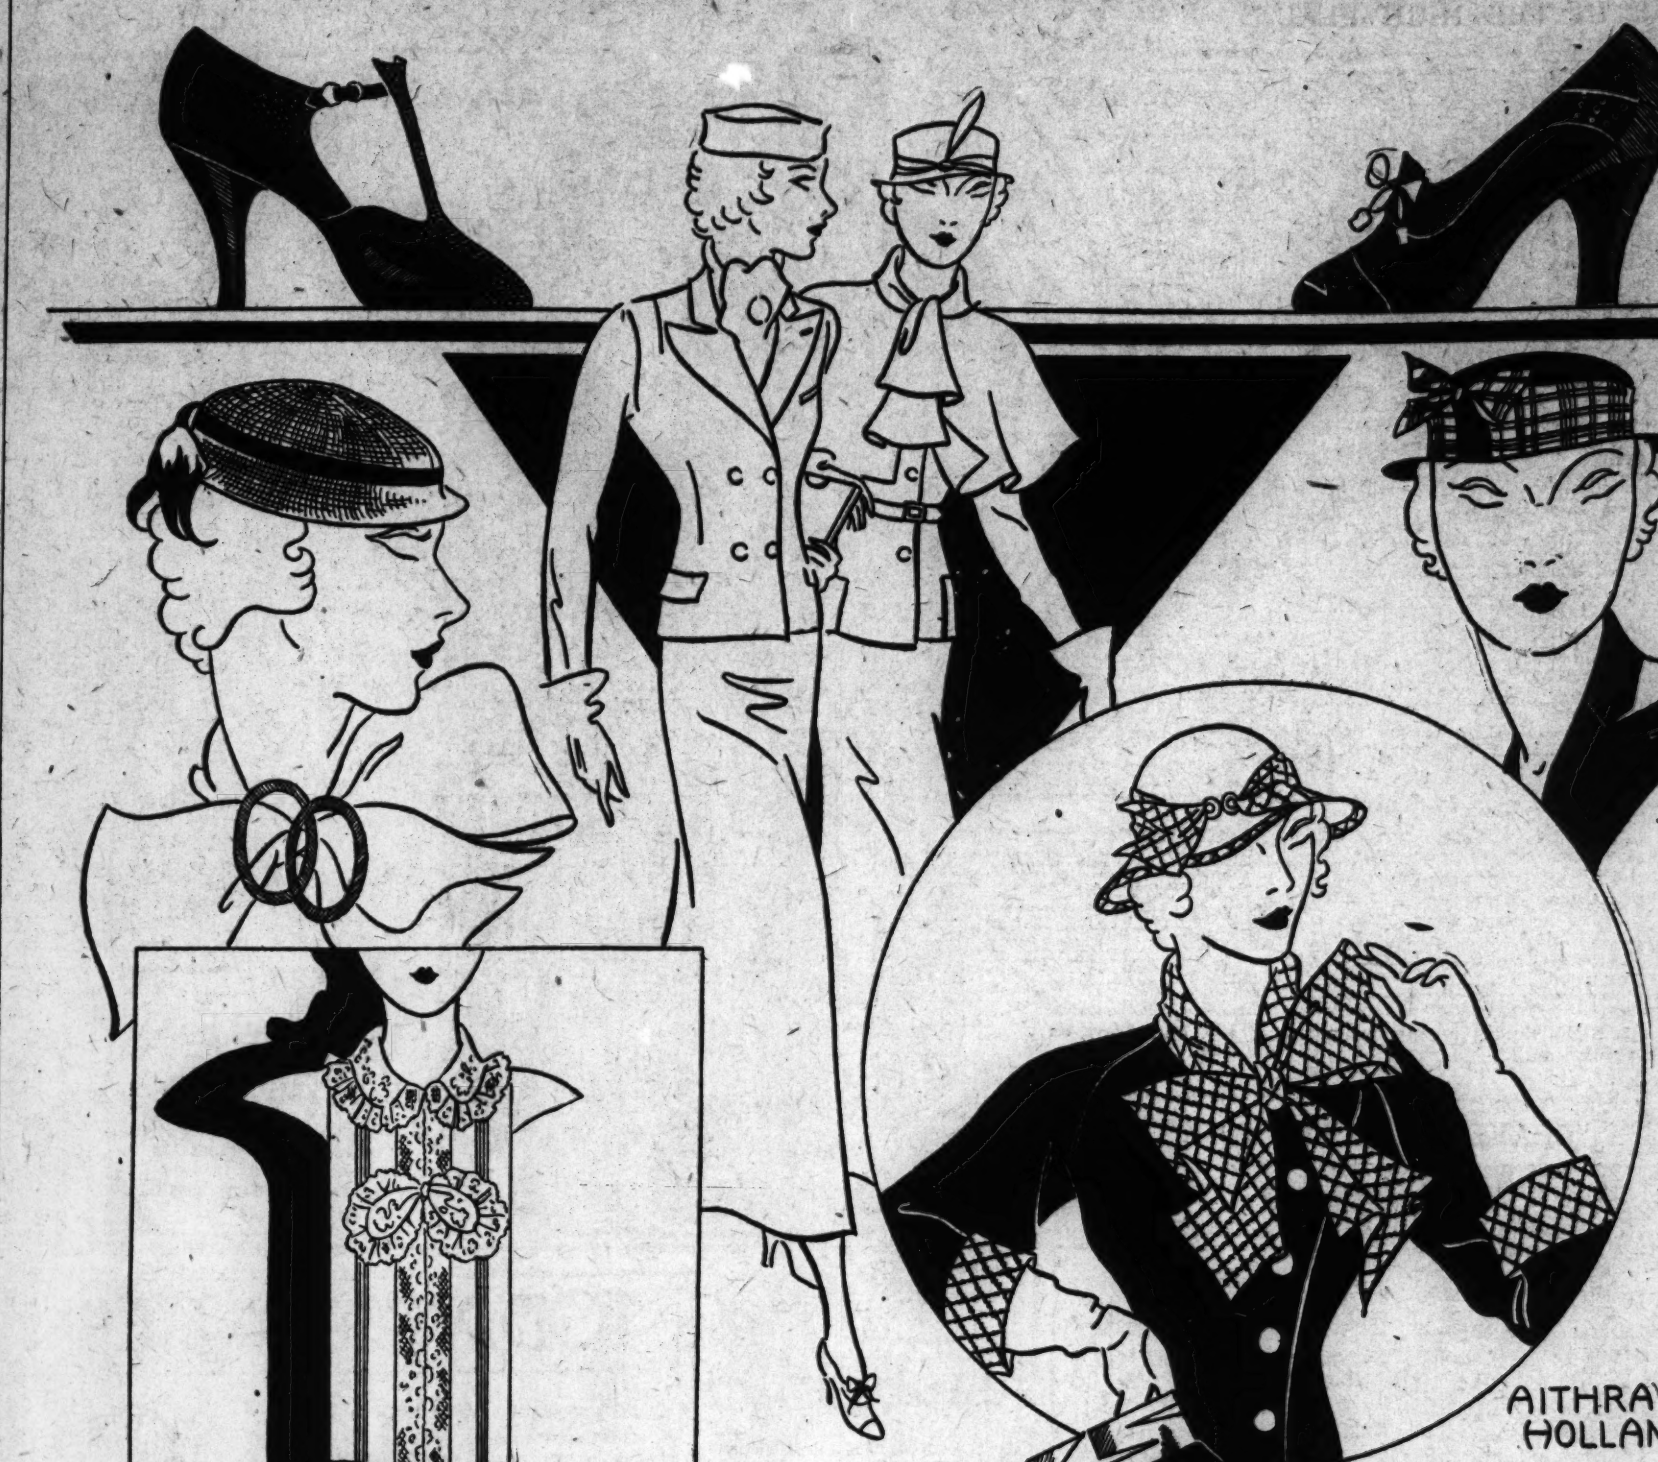

"Yes, you know him much better than I do. You could ask him, and I'll sign the note."

"I couldn't, Toby."

"But you just said you thought it would be all right to borrow a thousand and pay off my debts in a lump sum."

"I know, but I couldn't ask him for any more money. She shrank back against the chair.

sketched illustrates the interest in pignik. This tailored accessory introduces novel rings slipped through leather eyelets. It is most effective when accompanying pignik shoes.

A tendency toward matching shoes and pocketbooks is worth following because it is a certain way to smartness. Blue bag, shoes and hat, for example, contribute dash to a gray suit. Another effective idea is to ensemble the bag, hosiery and gloves with a navy suit.

Neutral shades bordering on the beige are chosen. And if you want to try a distinctive new and pleasing accessory trick with a gray suit, hat and shoes, try beige gloves, bag and hosiery.

After choosing such accessories the only things a woman needs to complete her suit costume are a gray handkerchief in her pocket and a sprightly nosegay in her coat lapel.

GOOD TASTE

By EMILY POST

Miscellaneous

My Dear Mrs. Post: I am a chauffeur, and the other day my employer sent me to give another lady a very important message, which I was told to deliver to her personally. This lady lives in a large apartment building in which of course there is a front elevator and a service one. I thought because the message had to be given personally to the lady I would better go up the front elevator but the man running it would not take me up and said I had to go around to the back one. Don't you think it would have been better for me to have gone in the front door rather than go into the lady's study through the kitchen and the pantry?

Answer: It is against the rules in all apartment houses, which are equipped with two classes of elevators, to allow employees or any persons carrying delivery packages to use the front elevators. The elevator man had no choice in obeying the rules of the agent or of the house committee.

Dear Mrs. Post: I pass a boy in the hall at school many times during the day. We both know who each other is but have never met. Would it be proper for me to speak to him, or should he speak first?

Answer: Properly, a girl does not stop to talk to a boy who has not been introduced to her, but since you are schoolmates and you see him day after day, I think it rather better to say "good morning" frankly than to cast self-conscious sheep's eyes at one another. After all, unless you look at him and he at you, you wouldn't know that you recognize each other, would you?

Dear Mrs. Post: My uncle gave me a brass and copper coffee service for a wedding present, because he happened to be extremely fond of brass and copper. He told me at the time that his feelings would not be hurt if I wanted to exchange it for another kind or something else. I would prefer not to do either because he selected it for me, but is there any time I can use it?

Answer: Certainly. Use it exactly as you would use silver. But you should not put it on a silver tray. If you haven't a copper or a brass one, use a painted one of either wood or tin—anything that is becoming to the service.
